DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 26.—The large stave factory and cooperage works of the Geyer-Adams company of this city was entirely destroyed by fire early this morning. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Origin of fire unknown.

Checked—the frightful inroads of Scrofula and all blood-taints. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses the system of all impurities, and restores health and strength. It cures all diseases arising from impure blood. Consumption is one of them. It's simply lung-scrofula. In all its earlier stages, the "Discovery" effects a cure. It's easy to see why. The medicine that masters scrofula in one part, is the best remedy for it in another. It is the best. It's warranted. It's the only blood and lung remedy that's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money will be refunded. No other medicine of its class does it. How many would be left if they did?

It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, (no matter how many doses are offered for a dollar,) because you only pay for the good you get.

That's the kind of medicine to try.

Your money is returned if it doesn't benefit or cure you.

DOWN IN A MINE.

Terrible Explosion Reported from Wales.

The Escape Gallaries Badly Shattered

And No Means Left for the Men to Escape.

One Hundred and Forty Miners Imprisoned.

Very Little Hope That Any of the Men Can be Brought Up Alive—Scenes At the Mouth of the Pit.

London, Aug. 26.—An explosion, which it is feared may be attended by enormous loss of life, has occurred at Aberkenfig, near Bridgend, in the county of Glamorgan, Wales.

One hundred and forty-one miners are entrapped in a coal pit owing to an explosion which shattered the galleries by which they could have made exit, and nothing is known as to their fate.

When the explosion took place a volume of coal dust arose from the mouth of the pit, and this, along with the rumbling noise, gave notice to the inhabitants that something serious had occurred.

Women and children rushed to the mouth of the pit, crying and wailing for fathers, husbands and brothers below.

The scenes at the pit's mouth were most distressing, and efforts were at once made to reach the entombed miners and ascertain the extent of the calamity.

These efforts, so far, have proved unsuccessful, and the indications are that the explosion may have destroyed every life in the mine.

The managers have called on men from neighboring collieries to assist in the work of rescue, and the most strenuous exertions are being made to open a way to the unfortunates below.

In several instances women have gone frantic over the suspense and some of them have insisted on taking part in the work.

Many hundreds of spectators have assembled from all directions, and work is at a standstill in the vicinity, so great and general is the anxiety to ascertain whether those in the mine are alive or not.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Election of Officers at Kansas City.

W. W. Blackwell, of Ky., at the Head of the Order.

The Pythian Sisters Elect Officers—The Prize Drill—The New Ritual—General Mention.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26.—The Pythian army has a new leader. George B. Shaw has retired, and W. W. Blackwell, of Kentucky, has been elected to succeed him as supreme chancellor for the Knights of Pythias of the world. For the next two years and until the next supreme lodge shall have elected his successor, he will be the supreme ruler of the order. His associates, too, have been elected, and the new supreme lodge is complete.

Yesterday was election day in the supreme lodge, and, as such, was of moment to every member of the order. Preliminary to the election of officers, the report of the committee on rules, which was pending, was taken up and completed. At 11:30 the election was ordered. But little interest was excited for the first two offices, supreme chancellor and supreme vice chancellor. Everyone conceded that both Blackwell and Ritchie would be elected by acclamation, and when the supreme lodge confirmed popular opinion by electing both, as the public had said it would, great satisfaction was expressed by expectant knights, who crowded the ante room leading to Scottish Rite hall. There were two candidates for supreme prelate, E. T. Blackmer, of San Diego, Cal., the present prelate, and George H. Morrison, of Nevada, the present supreme master at-arms. But one ballot was taken. One hundred and twelve votes were cast, of which Morrison received 53 and Blackmer 59. A majority elects in the supreme lodge.

Supreme Keeper of Records and Seal R. L. C. White, of Nashville, Tenn., was re-elected by acclamation.

The same honor was awarded to S. J. Willey, of Wilmington, Del., supreme chancellor of the exchequer. No candidate appeared in the list against him, so no ballot was necessary.

There were two candidates for supreme master at arms. Supreme Inner Guard Barkwell, of Wyoming, wanted it; so did Supreme Representative Lyon, of Kansas. The first ballot resulted: Barkwell 53, Lyon 62. Kansas won its only battle before the supreme lodge.

For supreme inner guard there were four candidates. Eugene Race, of Illinois; H. A. Bigelow of Washington; T. La Hache, of Texas; and A. B. Gardiner, of New York. The first and only ballot resulted: Gardiner 61, Race 20, Bigelow 17, La Hache 10.

Gardiner's election was made unanimous.

John W. Thompson, of Washington, D. C., was re-elected, by acclamation, supreme outer guard.

The office of secretary of the endowment rank will not be filled until after it has been decided whether the constitution will be changed.

William Worth Blackwell, the newly elected supreme chancellor, is a merchant of Henderson, Ky. He has held in succession all the offices of his state's grand lodge, and was unanimously elected supreme vice chancellor two years ago.

Walter B. Ritchie, the new supreme vice chancellor, is a lawyer of Lima, O., and is recognized as one of the foremost leaders of the Ohio bar. Two years hence, by right of succession, he will become supreme chancellor.

Joseph H. Lyon, the new supreme master-at-arms, is general agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, with headquarters in this city. His home is in Leavenworth, Kan., and he is commander of the Kansas brigade, uniform rank. All the other officers were re-elected, and are well known to all Pythians.

At the special meeting of the Supreme lodge exemplification of the new ritual was witnessed by the entire body. The work is said to be a vast improvement over the existing ritual, and the special committee, which has spent much time in its compilation, will certainly be complimented by the supreme body voting to adopt it without amendment. It is said to be the acme of ritualistic perfection, and as such will soon be tested by the grand lodge jurisdictions and the subordinate lodges.

The competitive drills for the division grand prize of $1,500 was resumed at the Exposition ball park, with Major Whiteside and Lieutenants Eastman and Roudies as inspectors. There was a large crowd of spectators in attendance, and the respective divisions were heartily applauded as they accomplished some of the many intricate display movements with military precision.

The Pythian Sisters.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26.—The Supreme Temple of the Pythian Sisters of the world had a busy session. The morning was devoted to the consideration of the report of the supreme officers. In the afternoon the biennial election of officers took place with the following result: Supreme chief, Mrs. Hattie A. Robinson; supreme senior, Mrs. Sarah J. Goff, of Center Falls, R. I.; supreme junior, Mrs. H. W. Dodd, of Fort Madison, Ia.; supreme mistress of records and seals, Mrs. M. D. Wood, of Kansas City; supreme mistress of finance, Miss Emma Bacon, of Dayton, O.; supreme guard, Mrs. Anna Hammond; supreme proctress, Mrs. Sarah Woff, of San Francisco. Supreme trustees will be elected to-morrow.

RETURNING HOME.

Knights of Pythias Finishing Their Work.

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—The knights have quieted down considerably this morning and many of them have left for their homes. The outgoing trains have been filled to their utmost capacity and those to-night will carry all but those companies and divisions which have participated in the drills.

The drilling at the park is going on this morning and will probably be completed to-day.

The supreme lodge is in session wrestling with the matter of location for the biennial encampment, and will probably decide this point this afternoon.

Louisville has a good lead, and the indication now is that she will get it, although Minneapolis is coming in strong, with great hopes based on her ability to care for the republican national convention.

Other cities which are competing are considered out of the race, and the real contest lies between these two.

The business of the supreme lodge will be finished this evening and to-morrow only the remnant of what was to be the greatest thing ever seen in Kansas City will be left. It has been a great disappointment to the citizens, as the crowd which remained here over night never at any time exceeded 30,000 people, and provisions had been made to accommodate 100,000.

CHOLERA INCREASING.

Eight Hundred New Cases in Hamburg.

A Steamboat Load of Disease Reaches England.

The Condition so Serious in Some Places that Schools Have Been Closed—Bulletins.

Hamburg, Aug. 26.—The cholera continues to grow in virulence. Eight hundred cases were recorded yesterday, many of the victims having been seized a few hours before they died. The total number of deaths was 140. Prof. Koch has telegraphed to Berlin that the plague is increasing in Hamburg. The authorities are doing everything possible to stay the spread of the disease.

The bathing station and public markets have been closed, the schools shut up and all public meetings, balls, dances and gatherings whether for business or amusement, have been prohibited.

Fortunately there is no extraordinary temperature to aggravate the disease. The heat is normal.

London, Aug. 26.—The Asiatic cholera has arrived in England. The steamer Gemma, from Hamburg, has entered at Gravesend, bringing several cases of the plague. Two women on the steamer have died from the cholera and another victim, a man, is improving. The news has caused great consternation and excitement in London.

Paris, Aug. 26.—The latest regarding cholera at Havre is that 28 cases appeared on Thursday, and that there were 10 deaths from cholera that day. The authorities at Havre have been instructed to adopt the most stringent sanitary measures, and especially to isolate every case.

ANOTHER RAID.

Miners Captured By the Soldiers.

Volunteers are Plenty and the Rioters will Soon be Brought In.

Oliver Springs, Tenn., Aug. 26.—Volunteers were called for yesterday at Coal Creek by Lieut. Patterson to go to Oliver Springs and try to take that place.

As the whole brigade responded at once, 37 men were picked. The soldiers, in command of Col. Sevier and Lieut. Patterson, arrived here at 12:30, when the telegraph office was seized. The train then went on to Indian Creek mine, where about 25 miners were captured. They were left in charge of seven men, when Lieut. Patterson ordered his men to march to Winter Gap mines, where 30 men were captured. Then he started across the mountains capturing 25 more.

Lieut. Mallory alone captured 20, among them two or three of the leaders. They were being tried by Col. Sevier and staff. All the miners captured and found guilty will be taken to Coal Creek to-day.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 26.—Over one hundred prisoners arrested yesterday and last night at Oliver Springs were landed at Camp Carnes, Coal Creek, this morning. Many of them were recognized as fellows who captured Chilhowie light infantry of this city and robbed them of everything they had. They will be tried for conspiracy and highway robbery. The next raid will be on Jellico.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

Ogden, Utah, Excited Concerning the City Treasurer.

Ogden, Utah, Aug. 26.—The people of Ogden are greatly exercised over a report that City Treasurer Halfrich is a defaulter to the amount of $15,000. A city warrant for $4,000 was presented yesterday at the Citizen's bank where Mr. Helfrich keeps his funds and where he is also a bank clerk, and the warrant was dishonored and the statement made that there were no funds. It is said that Helfrich has acknowledged the shortage and will surrender himself to his bondsmen.

THE BORDEN CASE.

Samuel Robinsky, a Traveling Peddler,

May Furnish a Clue to the Murderers.

Strange Statement If True—Continuation of the Preliminary Hearing at Fall River.

Fall River, Aug. 26.—Mr. Jennings, counsel for the defense, has given out the following letter for publication from Waltham which was mailed August 18, and received at Fall River at 4 p. m. on the 18th:

"Miss Emma Borden: Dear Madam—You must excuse that I take the liberty in sending you these few lines. I ought to have written to you before this, but I was unable to do so as I was traveling every day. My name is Samuel Robinsky. I am a Jewish peddler.

"When the fatal murder in Fall River occurred I was only a few miles from Fall River that day. While sitting on the roadside towards New Bedford, I met a man who was covered with blood. He told me he worked on a farm and that he never could get his wages so he had a fight with the farmer. He said he ran away and did not get any money after all. All he had was a five-dollar bill. He bought from me four handkerchiefs, one looking glass, one necktie, collar and shoe blacking. His boots were covered with blood and he put blacking on it.

"I helped him to fix up again and get cleaned, but by this time I did not know anything about the murded. I felt sorry for him and thought only he gave the farmer a good licking. I advised him to travel at night, which he said he would do, as he feared arrest during the day. I gave him my lunch and he gave me a quarter and told me not to say anything that I met him.

"He asked me what time the train left for Boston after 8 o'clock at night and I told him. He had also a bundle which was about two feet thick. When I was peddling I did not read any papers only Sundays as I am studying the English language.

"When I was in Boston last Sunday a friend of mine told me about the Fall River murder. I told him I was in Fall River and around the neighborhood. I told him about my stranger and my friend said, 'But why did you not report this to the police?'

'I told him I was afraid as they would lock me up as a witness and another thing, I did not have any license so I was afraid. I told my friend I would write to you or Mr. Jennings. I read last Sunday's Boston Globe and thought I might have seen the murderer.

'If I should see him here I am sure, yes, dead sure, I'd know him again; he is of medium height, dark brown hair, reddish whiskers or mustache, weight about 135 pounds, gray suit, brown derby hat, his shoes were what they call Russian leather, no blacking, or so-called summer shoes.

"He put my blacking on to make them look black and people could not see the blood."

"SAMUEL ROBINSKY."

OCEAN MARINE.

London, Aug. 26.—The steamer Jersey City from New York, before reported with machinery disabled, arrived at Bristol to-day.

New York, Aug. 26.—Arrived—Germanic from Liverpool; steamer Werkendam from Rotterdam.

WANAMAKER AND REID

Both Are the Enemies of the Working Man.

How the Former is Keeping the Salary Voted to Letter Carriers From Them.

Washington, Aug. 26.—One of the most unjust acts of the present administration has been the contest of Postmaster General Wanamaker against the law passed in 1888, to compensate letter carriers for work done in excess of the eight hours prescribed by law.

The plain intent of the law was to compensate the carriers for over time, but the postmaster general found a technicality by which to avoid payment, thus depriving them of part of their dues.

It was held by him that the carriers were not to be paid for the time occupied in waiting for mail. There was no record kept of this waiting time, and the department roughly estimated that it was about three hours per carrier. By deducting this from the full time the carriers were on duty, it almost brought their time uniformly within the eight hours prescribed by law as a day's work.

The employés failing to get satisfaction from the department carried the issue into the court of claims, where the department ruling was declared illegal.

This decision was not acquiesced in by the postmaster general, and he appealed to the supreme court of the United States. It will probably be three years before the appeal is reached in the supreme court, but in the meantime Mr. Wanamaker will have the satisfaction of feeling that he is keeping from the most faithful and hard-working of the government employes compensation which congress intended they should have.

Postmaster General Wanamaker can figure as about as ardent a friend of labor as Whitelaw Reid.

POWDER MAGAZINES.

Three of Them Have a High Old Time.

Lightning Gets In Its Work with Disastrous Effect in Texas.

Gainesville, Tex., Aug. 26.—Three powder magazines, belonging one each to Dupont, Rand & McNally, and Hazard Powder company, blew up here yesterday afternoon.

There were about 600 kegs of powder in the magazines. Lightning had been darting through the skies all morning, and at 1 o'clock a bolt struck one magazine, which exploded, at once wiping the two others from the face of the earth.

The concussion was terrific, the earth trembled and women and children rushed to the streets.

The shock broke thousands of windows and in some instances ruined houses a mile distant. The explosion was heard at Whitesboro, 15 miles distant.

Cattle grazing near the magazines were killed and terribly mangled. Every house within a mile of the magazines was badly damaged, and in many of them the inmates were thrown to the floor and seriously injured.

Half a dozen persons received dangerous wounds from broken glass and falling timbers. The total loss will amount to about $15,000.

FEDERAL INJUNCTION.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Have Been Notified.

Austin Tex., Aug. 26.—The papers in the federal injunction suit granted by Judge McCormick at Dallas on Monday were formally served on Chairman Reagan and the other railway commissioners yesterday.

Chairman Reagan stated that in obeying the injunction the commission would not further interfere with the four roads concerned in procuring the injunction. The commission will go on as formerly, making rates for the roads not included in the injunction.

GOV. EAGLE ILL.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 26.—A telegram from Mrs. Eagle states that her husband, Governor James P. Eagle, is lying at death's door at Richmond, Ky. It is believed he cannot recover. Gov. Eagle has been ill for several weeks and lately went to Richmond, hoping that a change of climate would benefit him.

HE DIED AS HE LIVED.

Murderer Morton Executed at Camden.

His Crime Was the Most Cold-Blooded.

An Insane Greed for Money Caused Him to Kill a Defenseless Old Colored Woman.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 26.—The crime for which James R. Morton paid the penalty at 10 o'clock this morning, was one of the most brutal in the history of the county. It was the result of the deliberate planning of a mind crazed by the desire for money. In this it was not dissimilar to the crime for which the death penalty was last paid in this county—the murder of Thomas Armstrong by John Hunter, who was hanged in 1870.

Morton was until a few months before his crime a special officer in the lower section of the city, was looked upon as an intelligent colored man. He lived at 1142 South Sixth street with two daughters, his wife being dead.

Some time in April Mrs. Lydia Ann Wyatt, a 73-year old colored woman, who was separated from her husband, went to live at his house. She owned a property which she sold in May for $800. In her visits to the lawyers in arranging the sale of the property, she was accompanied by Morton, who took a great interest in her welfare.

So great was this interest impressed upon her that on the 6th of May she made a will leaving Morton one-half of her estate and a Camden lawyer the other half, the two heirs to act as her executors.

Three days after this, Monday, May 9, the murder occurred. Between 8 and 10 o'clock on that day Morton met the old woman as she came down stairs from her room. Snatching from her hand a heavy rosewood cane which her age compelled her to use in walking, he felled her to the floor. In his confession made just after his arrest, he declared that the old woman and he had a quarrel and that it was in a moment of passion that he struck her.

At the postmortem examination her skull was found to have been fractured and no less than a dozen wounds were found on her body, most of them on the head. As soon as the old woman was dead Morton took $325 from a bag she carried and left the house.

He offered a colored undertaker $75 if he would bury her at once. This aroused suspicion and he was placed under arrest. It then developed that Morton, on April 25, attempted to get a Philadelphia medical student to purchase a "live woman subject, 73 years old, and fat."

Morton's trial took place on June 2. He pleaded not guilty, but just as the first juror entered the box he withdrew this and pleaded guilty.

After two day's advising the court unanimously found him guilty of murder in the first degree. He was sentenced to be hanged on July 29, but through the intervention of Father Kelly he was granted a reprieve until to-day.

About 8 o'clock last night the three daughters of Morton called on the condemned father. They remained with him until nearly midnight and bade their father an affecting farewell. After they had gone and a few moments spent in devotions, Morton threw himself upon his hammock. It was not a great while before he was wrapped in slumber. All through the night he slept well. He arose at 6 o'clock this morning refreshed by his sleep.

He exhibited strong nerve from the time he arose, and at 8 o'clock one of the prison officials told the United Press reporter that he did not believe any man was ever nervier than was Morton then. He ate heartily of the breakfast of fish prepared for him.

THE BROCK GANG.

Davis Tells the Story of the Killing.

All His Adversaries Fell and Left Only Himself to Tell the Tale of Slaughter.

Grand Junction, Col., Aug. 26.—Passengers from the west yesterday brought additional particulars of the shooting of the Brock gang near West Water, Utah, Wednesday.

The names of the men killed are Chas. O. Brock, Charles A. Dusel and Wm. Miller.

The story of Davis is that he discovered some property had been stolen from his house, and an unsuccessful attempt made to set the house on fire.

He suspected the Brock gang, and with a lad started to trace the stolen goods and demand their return or pay for the same.

They finally brought up at the Brock cabin. They were met at the door by Dusel, who attacked Davis with a club, while Miller shot at him through the window. Davis killed Dusel and mortally wounded Miller.

He then started away from the place and met Brock. The result was a fight in which Brock was killed. This is the Davis story. There is no person left to tell the story of the other side. Davis left West Water for Provo yesterday to surrender himself.

GEN. STEVENSON.

He Will Make a Rousing Campaign in Illinois.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 26.—Gen. Stevenson is in the best of health after his trip to New York. His program so far as announced to him by the national committee, and including a few engagements made by himself, is as follows:

Saturday he will address a mass meeting in this city.

August 30 he will speak at Sedalia, Mo.; September 1, at Vincennes, Ind.; September 2, at Herndon, Ky., Mr. Stevenson's birthplace; September 7, at Indianapolis; September 8, at Marion, Ind.; September 9, at Clay City and Brazil, Ind.; September 10, at Green Castle and Terre Haute, Ind.; September 16, at Asheville, N. C. After that he will make five speeches in North Carolina. October 1 he will deliver an address at Hamilton, O., the home of ex-Governor Campbell. He will open his campaign in Illinois in October and make five speeches.

THEY HAVE SECEDED.

Buffalo Switchmen Leave the Order

And Go On a Strike on Their Own Hook.

They Think Sweeney Did Not Conduct Affairs Properly and will Try a New Deal.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Some of the Lackawanna and Nickel Plate switchmen struck again at 9 o'clock last night. The followers of the Quinn brothers, who participated in the personal attack upon Mr. Sweeney, gathered in force and held a secret meeting yesterday at which they declared themselves in favor of continuing the strike over his head and in spite of him. They were reinforced by a number of Lackawanna switchmen anxious to keep up the fight. The Lackawanna men sent a committee to see Mr. Sweeney, but were unable to find him. They then decided to take matters in their own hands and make a fight.

This amounts practically to a secession from the order.

The leaders of the secession are the Quinns and Miles Barrett, of Chicago. The first to fall in line with this new condition of things were some of the employes of the Lackawanna, Nickel Plate and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg. Strikers were ordered on the two lines first named and it was expected every moment that the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg men would join them.

A NEW LEADER.

Vice Grand Master Barrett Is Now in Charge.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—There is rebellion in the switchmen's order against Grand Master Sweeney. His authority is denied and his mandates are unheeded. The men have found a new leader in the person of Vice Grand Master Barrett, of Chicago, and while Mr. Sweeney nurses his wounds in his hotel and says the strike is off, the men say it is not, and that they will win yet.

The results of the internal dissension were chiefly noticeable last night on the Lackawanna road. When the strike was declared off the Lackawanna men went to work and manned the engines, but they remained only a short time. Last night the engines were idle and for a time this morning it was doubtful if they would be running to-day.

The men, however, have decided to go back to their old places and about 11 o'clock this morning they again went to work.

Mr. Barrett this morning declined to be interviewed, but said that the strike was not off. He has appointed a committee to prepare him a statement of the exact condition of affairs and this committee will report to-day. Mr. Barrett said: "I intend to stay here until victory is won."

The roads are all doing full work and can be said to be in a normal condition.

SWEENEY MOVES OUT.

He Says the Seceders Cannot Win Their Point.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Mr. Sweeney was found in his room at the Genesee house. He looked considerably the worse for the assault upon him yesterday and will carry the marks for some time. Mr. Sweeney said that the strike was formally declared off in accordance with the form prescribed by the constitution, and any action to continue the strike is in violation of the rules of the order and will not receive the support of that body.

Mr. Sweeney left the city at 11 o'clock, probably for Chicago, though he did not announce his destination and no one at the hotel could furnish the information.

Striker Quinn, who assaulted Mr. Sweeney, will not be prosecuted. Supt. of Police Morgenstern sent detectives to Mr. Sweeney to ask if he desired Quinn arrested. Mr. Sweeney told them that he would not swear out a warrant and did not wish to press the case.

The Lackawanna has 15 yard engines at work this morning and nearly all are manned by their old crews. One of the strikers who returned said, "I have a family to support and I have to work. I saw no sense in remaining out any longer, and I determined to come back to work, either as a union man or a non-union man."

Yard Foreman Burke said he thought all the night men would be back to work to-night. Several men had told him they would be back.

The attempt to continue the strike is therefore a fizzle, and as fast as the men get back to their old places or new ones they can be depended on to take them. Those who cannot get back may stay on strike, but their action will have no effect on the railroads.

LOCKED IN THE FLAMES.

Four Children Imprisoned in A Burning House.

Three are Rescued and One is Burned—Only the Bones Found in the Debris—A Sad Affair.

This morning after Wm. Harter, who is a butcher working for C. Talmadge & Co., left his home at the corner of Brigham street and Comstock avenue, his wife put on her things and walked to the grocery. It was quite early and the four children of the house were yet in bed. Mrs. Harter locked the doors to keep the tramps out when she left.

Somehow or other fire broke out, probably from the kitchen stove, and in a short time the little frame house was in flames with the four children locked inside.

The watchman at McLean's glass works saw the flames, and rushing over broke in the door, found three of the children and got them out.

A 16-months old baby was sleeping in the [illegible] and was overlooked. The bones only were found in the debris after the fire.

The house was so far out that it took the person who gave the alarm a long time to get to the box, and when the department arrived there was no hydrant within a mile, and the chemical alone could work.

It was a most sad affair, and the parents have the sympathy of all in the loss of their child and home.

The building, which belonged to Tanner & Tanner, was almost completely demolished.

TALKING ABOUT TOLLS.

Some Additional Diplomatic Correspondence.

Canada Was Given Plenty of Warning.

The Proclamation Will Stand Until Discrimination Against American Vessels Cease.

Washington, Aug. 26.—An important letter, two of them, in fact, were made public to-day at the state department. The first was from Mr. Herbert, charge d'affaires of the British legation, to Secretary John W. Foster, and the second was Gen. Foster's reply.

The subject was canal tolls.

Mr. Foster presents the American side of the controversy in a very blunt, polite and interesting way. He shows that American canals have been absolutely free, according to the treaty of 1871, and that Canadian canals have not been free. However, there was no complaint so far as Americans were concerned so long as the tolls were not discriminatory.

When Canadian vessels paid the same as American vessels for passage through the Welland and St. Lawrence canals no objection was raised to the tolls, although meanwhile Canadian vessels were getting free privileges from the United States in St. Mary's canal. It was when American vessels were charged more toll than was collected from Canadian vessels that protest was made.

For years the Canadian government has disregarded the letters of this government on the subject. Now 57 per cent. of the traffic through the Canadian canals is American traffic, and pays 72 per cent. of all the gross tolls. Mr. Foster is delightfully frank and patriotic, and serves notice that the president's proclamation of retaliation will stand so long as the order of council is not repealed by the Canadian cabinet.

The correspondence is supplementary to that given to the press August 20, when the president's retaliatory proclamation was issued, and consists of a letter written by Mr. Herbert on the evening of August 20 to Mr. Foster, and the latter's reply thereto under date of August 24.

Mr. Herbert says the Canadian government desires to point out that the United States government may be unaware that tolls for the Welland and St. Lawrence canals are of a temporary nature only, and that it is not intended to re-establish them in their present form after the expiration of the season of 1892. The features of the present tariff giving preferential treatment to certain routes and ports and providing for transhipment at Canadian ports only, will not be re-adopted after the present season. This undertaking, however, would not be binding on the Canadian government if the president of the United States should in the meanwhile proclaim and enforce the imposition of tolls on the Sault Ste. Marie canal, as authorized by the recent act of congress.

The Canadian government states that grave difficulties present themselves to an alteration of the tariff of tolls during the present season. Contracts and engagements have been entered into in various parts of this country and Great Britain, based on the continuance of this tariff during the whole of the present season. The rights which have been established under these contracts and engagements cannot be interferred with without great confusion and detriment, and apparent breach of faith. They believe, therefore, that the United States government will recognize the importance of the difficulties which stand in the way of an immediate repeal of the present tariff, and that the assurance of its termination at the end of the present season will be regarded as satisfactory evidence of the desire of the government of the dominion to remove any ground which has a tendency to disturb the friendly interchange of trade between the two countries.

Mr. Foster, replying to the above, says that notwithstanding the mandatory character of the act, constraining the president to take action upon ascertaining the existence of the prescribed conditions in the dominion unavoidable or discriminatory against the citizens of the United States in their enjoyment of the Canadian canals on an equal footing with British subjects, the president was well disposed to withhold for a reasonable time the issuance of his proclamation in the hope that the disappearance of those adverse conditions might indefinitely postpone such action on his part. The spirit of neighborly good will which prompted the president to this delay, for which the statute contained no precise warrant, is the more evident when the fact is considered that the season for which the Canadian provisions were prescribed were already far advanced, and the movement of grain was at its height, so that each day's delay diminished the effectiveness of the remedy it was his desire to obtain from the sense of justice of the dominion government.

Being well aware that the obnoxious tolls for the Welland and St. Lawrence canals did not in terms extend beyond the present season of canal navigation, it became evident to the president that no present effective relief was to be offered on the part of the dominion, and that the full measure of the discriminations imposed by the Canadian order of 1892 was to be continued unabated during the full life of that order, and inasmuch as the act of congress prescribed his duty in view of existing conditions and not of conditions which may or may not exist in future years, no course remained open to him but to give immediate effect to the statute by issuing his proclamation.

Continuing, Mr. Foster says that all that is contemplated by the president's proclamation is to establish in the American canal the same conditions that now exist and have existed in the Canadian canals for years past, and that the president's proclamation will remain in force no longer than the discriminations complained of are maintained by the Canadian government. Mr. Foster further says:

"I may observe that the Canadian proposal embraces two points, the tariff of tolls in the Dominion canals and the preferential treatment given to certain routes and ports and providing for transhipment at Canadian ports only. With regard to the first point, the declaration is made that it is not intended to re-establish such tolls "in their present form" after the expiration of the season of 1892, but what future form the tariff of tolls may take is left to conjecture and does not appear to be held subject to any reciprocal understanding. Such an understanding is only suggested with respect to the provisions governing preferential treatment and transhipment, which indeed form our main ground of complaint, and constitute the concrete conditions of disfavor to citizens of the United States which the president was constrained to examine and act upon, but this does not constitute our only ground of complaint. The substitution of a more equally balanced arrangement for the present device whereby 57 per cent. of the total American traffic passing through the Welland canal pays 72 per cent of the tolls could not fail to give the president unmixed satisfaction.

"I lament that grave difficulties present themselves to an alteration of tariff tolls during the present season, but I beg to remind you that the government of the United States is not responsible in any degree for that fact, and it should not be required to suffer on that account. For several years past the attention of the Canadian government has been called to its violation of article 27 of the treaty of 1871, and earnest remonstrances on that subject have been addressed to the British legation by my predecessors."

Mr. Foster then cites several instances in which the matter was brought to the attention of the Canadian government without receiving satisfaction, adding that if the Canadian government has seen fit in the face of earnest remonstrances of the United States to pursue the unneighborly course indicated, it should find some way to satisfy the claims of unfulfilled contracts and breach of faith, if such are well-founded, without an appeal to the forbearance of the United States.

Immediately after the conclusion of the treaty of 1871, whose beneficient effects in promoting peace between the two nations have been so conspicuous, the United States took steps to carry out the stipulations of article 27, and, without unreasonable delay, both the canals of the national and state governments, representing a vast system constructed at very great expense, were thrown open to the use of Canadian commerce without any charge whatever. On the other hand, heavy tolls have continued to be exacted on American commerce passing through the Welland and St. Lawrence canals, and although the absence of reciprocity of treatment was marked, it could not be made a cause of complaint under the treaty so long as the tolls were uniformly exacted from all commerce.

Not until discrimination against American ports and lines of transportation became so oppressive as to call for earnest protest of the carriers' associations and boards of trade in the cities of Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Oswego, Ogdensburg and other lake ports, did the government of the United States take action. And not until its repeated protests had passed unheeded by the Canadian government was the congress of the United States appealed to by the president. The unanimity with which congress clothed the president with power to correct the unjust discrimination must have convinced the Canadian authorities that the complaints of the United States government were regarded by the people of this country as serious and well founded. When it became known that desired action was postponed until another season and the president was thereby constrained to put the law into operation, his spirit of conciliation led him to exercise the minimum powers conferred upon him by congress and merely to establish on the canals of the United States the same tolls as are enforced on the canals of Canada; and he has coupled with this lenient action the assurance that the tolls in this one canal will be suspended concurrently with the removal of the unjust discriminations maintained by Canada. Mr. Foster concludes as follows:

I have taken pains to set forth at some length the causes which have compelled the recent action of the president, in order that the Canadian government and people may know that there is every disposition on the part of the government of the United States to maintain and extend the most intimate and friendly commercial relations with our northern neighbors, bound to us by so many ties of race and community of interests, and I yet cherish the hope, which I have already verbally expressed to you, that before the president's proclamation goes into effect the Canadian government will take such action in the direction of treaty observance as will make the proclamation unnecessary.

I am happy to reciprocate in the name of the president, the desire expressed in your note "to remove any ground which has a tendency to disturb the friendly interchange of trade between the two countries," but I beg to suggest that a persistent violation of treaty stipulations which were framed with an express view to the promotion of "friendly interchange of trade between the two countries" does not tend to that result. Until the Canadian government is prepared to resume its obligations under the treaty there can be found no safe basis of friendly commercial intercourse.

AT THE THEATERS.

Thatcher's Tuxedo Scores Another Hit in Toledo.

Opening of the Wonderland—To-night at Wheeler's—Next Week at The People's.

George Thatcher's Tuxedo held forth at the Wheeler last evening. Tuxedo is something new, something bright and everything that is entertaining. There is no special plot. Mr. Thatcher says that for the individual who can discover a plot there is a barrel of red apples in the box office subject to his or her orders. Briefly, the story is about a party of swell amateurs at Tuxedo trying to give a performance for charity; they are stuck; Thatcher's minstrels help them out. On this slight thread is hung one of the best attractions on the road this season. Perhaps the people have a good deal to do with the success of Tuxedo. There is Raymond Moore, tenor; R. J. Jose, contra tenor; Thomas Lewis, baritone; H. W. Frellman, bass, and how they can sing. When Ray Moore sings a song it is a signal for it to become popular the country over. Mr. Frellman ranks with Whitney and the other great bassos, while Jose lifts the audience out of their seats. Take these gentlemen with comedians George Thatcher, Hughey Dougherty, Jay Quigley, Burt Shepherd and John E. Colemin, the man from England with the comedy legs, and such well known actresses as Mamie Gilroy, Ida Fitzhugh, Blanche Hayden, Laura Malick, and Grace Hamilton, and what play could be poor? Tuxedo is a sure winner. It has caught the people.

Next Week at the People's.

The Pulse of New York company will appear at the People's theater all next week. The piece is from the pen of Howard P. Taylor, the author of May Blossom, Caprice, etc., and comes to Toledo highly recommended. There are numerous highly realistic scenic effects including a scene on the New York elevated railroad, a pile driver at work, pier 26, East River, and a fire scene in which the heroine jumps from a burning building into a net. The company is said to be a strong one.

Underground This Evening.

Underground, a story of the mines, will be the attraction at Wheeler's this and to-morrow evenings. The scene of the play is laid in the coal mines of Pennsylvania and deals with the big strike of 1877. There is an excellent plot to the story interpreted by a good company and set off with elaborate scenery.

The Wonderland.

The Wonderland on Summit street near Madison will open Monday evening. Besides the numerous floors containing the museum, menagerie, Eden musee, wax work exhibition, there will be performances in the cozy little theater on the first floor, making it a most complete place of amusement.

The doors will open at 1 and 7 p. m. daily and there will be stage performances at 2:30, 4:30, 8 and 9:30 o'clock.

In the Eden Musee will be found the following wax groups, all life size: Christ on Calvary, Sobriety, Intemperance, Mortgaging the Homestead, Romeo and Juliet, Anarchists, Innocent Victim, Abraham's Sacrifice, Surrender of Lee.

The theater performance will include Binns & Burns, musical artists, who are this week playing at the Casino roof garden in New York, George C. Davis, impersonator; Miss Jennie Quigley, La Petit Freddy, Ando, the Japanese juggler; Prof. Paul Wallace, New Oame, the Japanese lady magician, and others.

UPPER SANDUSKY.

Notes of Social and General Interest.

Upper Sandusky, O., Aug. 26.—(Special)—Mrs. W. H. Mangus and Miss Margaret Lime pleasantly entertained a party of friends Friday evening at the former's home on North Sandusky avenue, in honor of Miss Emma Lea, of Nevada.

Wheelmen Dover, Ayres, Hitchcock and Wormley toured to Fostoria and Tiffin Sunday; Henderson and Shealy to Tiffin, and Daniels and Miller to Carey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Swerline, of Weston, O., were here the past week.

What Horses are Doing in the Races.

Base Ball Games Played and the Standing of the Clubs in the Big League.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 26.—There was every prospect of another sensational day at Charter Oak park till the weather put its veto on the program. Frequent showers made the track heavy, and, as there was little prospect of a clearing up at noon, the management decided to hold the third day's card over to Friday. The stake for 3-year old trotters has attracted about as much interest as that for the 2:21 class won by Nightingale yesterday, and nine of the twelve named are here. Chimes girl, the fast filly from Buffalo, has shown lameness from a corn and may not start, but Trevilian, MacLeay, Tamerlain and Starlight will probably compete for the $10,000-dollar prize.

The 2:10 pace left unfinished yesterday, must first be disposed of then the 2:19 trot, the stake and 2:23 trot follow.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Joe Goddard-the Barrier champion, and Billy Smith, of Australia, met in a ten-round contest in the California Athletic club rooms last night, the fight having been postponed from Monday. Goddard was to stop Smith in ten rounds. Only eight rounds were fought, however, the police then stopping the fight. Smith, to everybody's surprise, gave Goddard his own fight and as a consequence was pretty badly punished, but would in all probability have stayed the ten rounds. The contest was declared a draw.

Urbana, O., Aug. 26.—The largest crowd that has attended a fair in Champaign county was that of yesterday. It was estimated at 15,000. The feature of the day was the racing. In the 2:30 trot there were eight entries. Tempest came in first, Alice C. second, Gold Leaf third, Baron Russell fourth, Cyclone fifth. Purse $200. Time, 2:34 1-2, 2:32, 2:34 3-4.

The free for all pace had nine entries. Frank B. came under the wire a winner in three straight heats; Irish Boy second; Blue Bell third; Charles Mozer fourth. Five heats were required to settle the race. Time, 2:24 1-2, 2:30 1-2, 2:26 1-4, 2:28, 2:28 3-4.

The 3-year old trot was a splendid race. Jesse C., first; Moser, second; Bonis, third; Cavalier, fourth. Time, 2:40 1-4, 2:40, 2:40.

Hal Dillard paced a great race on August 17 at Lansing, Mich., capturing the third heat from such fast ones as Mikado, Wisconsin King, Expert Prince and six others in 2:15 3-4, winning second money, though the track was new and soft, and fully two seconds slow. He has been shipped to Independence, Ia., where he races August 31 in the 2:20 class.

Wellsville, O., Aug. 26.—Over eight thousand people witnessed the third day's races in this place, and they are well satisfied. The track was rather heavy on account of the rain, but before the races were over it was in excellent condition.

Columbus, Aug. 26.—About 18,000 people were present at the third day of the Columbus Driving park. The track was fast. Hal Pointer and Direct were the star attractions, though the latter had sore feet and was in no form. Splan could not handle Hal Pointer. In the third heat he broke a hundred yards from the wire, and had to be pulled to a standstill, losing eight lengths and letting Direct in. Just before the third heat, Hamlin gave Splan permission to handle as he pleased, and it was expected good time would be made. There was considerable disappointment over the go, and the horses will be given another chance for the $5,000 purse to-day.

There promises to be some very good races at the fair this year and horsemen are discussing the entries with much interest. The refreshment on the track, and at the fair will be in the hands of Hirssig and Unbehaun, which is a guarantee that they will be up to the highest standard and plenty of them.

—::—::—

Quite a party of Toledoans will leave Toledo September 2 to witness the Sullivan-Corbett fight, among them being V. H. Ketcham, Billy Wilson, Billy Tate, Jack Reeves of Cleveland, and Ed Gillman of Detroit. The boys will have a special car at their service and will go down in style—joining the Sullivan train on the way. Billy Wilson has a nice trip mapped out for the party and will see that they all have a good time.

—::—::—

Great interest is being shown in the race at the fair grounds to-morrow afternoon between Willard M. and Duke F., for $200. The track will be in excellent condition and some good work is confidently expected.

There will also be a race between Dr. W. E. McBain's Mambrino Rawleigh, D. J. E. Taylor's Clay, jr.; Billy Wilson's Patsey Collins and Ben Hur.

AFFAIRS OF THE IRON HALL

Some Sensational and Interesting History.

Strong Language Used by Dr. Younghusband.

Supreme Chief Justice Somerby Will Endeavor to Place the Order in Good Standing.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—The chairman of the supreme board of trustees of the Iron Hall is Dr. J. T. Younghusband, of Detroit, who returned from Indianapolis last night the most disgusted man in America. He declares that he was never before in such a den of thieves as that in Indianapolis. To a reporter he spoke as follows: "Until I spent an hour in the supreme office I thought everything all right. Why, do you know the chief clerks of the two divisions, Davis and Walker, talked to me of millions with as much indifference as if the subject was ten cent pieces. Such carelessness I never expected to find. I never heard of the Philadelphia bank matter until my arrival in Indianapolis, and as soon as I learned of it I immediately started for Philadelphia. I asked the cashier to explain about the deposit of $170,000 by Davis, and he replied 'Oh, you are mistaken, doctor; it was $200,000.' But if I was dumfounded then I was stunned by the next remark, which was to the effect that I, as chairman of the board of trustees, ought to sanction the deposit so as to help devise a way of getting out of the hole. I simply laughed at him and turned to leave the bank when he called me back and said: 'By the way, here are $85,000 in securities which represent the profits of an investment made in behalf of the trustees.'

"'Who directed you to invest any Iron Hall funds?' I asked him.

"'Oh, Davis and I fixed it up among ourselves, expecting you to acquiesce, and you had better accept the securities, doctor.'

"But I didn't accept them. They were not going to catch me asleep. Such a wanton waste of money it would be very difficult to conceive. Davis, I find by careful investigation, is worth $75,000. When he was appointed to office he was a poor man and lived in a small cottage which was not paid for. Both Walker and Somerby claim to be poor men, and I could not find anything to prove the contrary, although Somerby has drawn $10,000 a year salary for some time."

Speaking of the local phases D. Younghusband said: "The amount of the reserve fund now held by the Detroit branches amounts to $33,000, and it is to protect this that we ask to have a receiver appointed. The local membership will not exceed 1,200, as during the past three months they have been dropping out very rapidly. We wish to pool this reserve and divide it pro rata among the members. The Indianapolis men have got their eyes on it, however, and hope to wrest it from us. Why, yesterday Chief Justice Wheeler, of branch No. 269, received a dispatch from Walker asking him to send all reserves, and everything would be all right."

Returning to the Indianapolis muddle he said: "The board of trustees have been trying for a few years to get hold of the reserve fund to which we were entitled by law, but all efforts proved futile, as Davis would invariably reply that he would turn it over in good time, and then ask if we thought he was going to steal it. We first got Somerby to demand that he would turn it over. Then we got the supreme body to do likewise, but Davis' answer was always the same. I now see why he didn't do it. He simply couldn't, as the money was invested in that infernal Philadelphia bank.

"Soon after I arrived in Indianapolis," continued the doctor, "I went to Davis and asked how the trouble could be settled so as to keep it out of the hands of a receiver, as I thought the members were better able to handle the fund than a receiver, and would be apt to get better returns. Davis' reply was: 'This trouble can all be settled very quickly, but upon one condition only, namely: If Somerby will resign and all the clerks in his office are discharged, and you will give me a written guarantee that neither myself nor Walker will be molested, I will withdraw the petition for the appointment of a receiver.'

"That was the greatest revelation to me in all my investigation," said the doctor, "as I had an admission from Davis himself that he was at the bottom of the application for a receiver. I had not seen Davis' deviltry up to this time, but I saw it clearly enough then. He and Walker were determined to stay in their fat places and bragged to me that they would stay. They paid the legal expenses, and the three highest priced law firms in Indiana were employed. The applicants for a receiver are poor men. The court was asked to empower the receiver to employ any of the supreme officers whom he might choose, and Walker and Davis expected that their recommendation for a receiver would be accepted, so that they could remain in the ring, but the court refused."

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Supreme Chief Justice Somerby, of the Order of the Iron Hall, left here for Baltimore, where he intends to begin the regeneration of his organization. Mr. Somerby has been in Chicago for the last two days but has kept himself largely unto himself. Nobody could find him or learn anything of his whereabouts, or of his intentions.

His lieutenant, W. R. Delano, chief of the order in Illinois, divulged at a secret meeting held just what Somerby is working to accomplish. The meeting was called by Somerby himself, but he did not remain to attend it. There were present at this meeting delegates from every lodge of the order in Chicago. Speech after speech was made denouncing Somerby in the severest terms.

When Delano rose to make his speech in behalf of Somerby he was overwhelmed with hisses. Finally he managed to calm the delegates, and urged them to ask for a receiver for the Illinois lodges of the Iron Hall. He said it was Somerby's desire that a receiver should be appointed in every state where the order exists.

In this way it would be easier to straighten out the affairs and give it a new lease of life. Mr. Somerby had gone to Baltimore because he believed that Maryland was the best state in which to begin his work of building up the order anew. Delano talked for an hour and when he sat down had the delegates with him.

A committee appointed to select a man to be appointed receiver had not been named at midnight, but a man will be presented early to-morrow morning. During Somerby's stay in Chicago he was located in Delano's house.

GODDARD-SMITH.

The Police Stopped the Contest in the Eighth.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—The rounds in the Goddard-Smith fight, mentioned in another dispatch were as follows:

First round—Goddard went right at Smith, but the latter caught back at first. He found that hard game and ran away. Goddard kept right at him and Smith became groggy. He finally dropped to avoid punishment and stayed down eight seconds. He went down again from a right-hand punch, staying down eight seconds. When he got up Goddard was after him like a tiger and sent him down again. This time Goddard himself fell from the force of the blow.

Second—Goddard went at his man again and Smith tried to keep away, occasionally trying to get in a blow, but without much success. When closely pushed Smith would go down to avoid punishment. Smith's long left kept Goddard away a little and the round closed with both men in fair condition.

Third—Again Goddard started in for business and sent Smith down. The latter got up and went at the big man, but got the worst of it and went down again. After breaking from a clinch Goddard again floored him by a right on the ear. Smith fought back and Goddard seemed tired. Smith was bleeding badly, but stood up well and played for Goddard's wind.

Fourth—Smith came up fresh. Goddard went at him in his usual fierce style and Smith went down to avoid punishment.

Fifth—It was simply a question of endurance with Smith, as he saw plainly he could not hurt Goddard. At every blow Joe struck Smith went down. The referee cautioned him against this and he stood up a little better. Before the round closed Police Captain Short stopped the fight. He let the men go at it again, however, and Smith had the advantage of the slight rest.

Sixth—Goddard played for Billy's wind and got in some awful blows on the stomach. He got Smith up against the ropes and floored him with a right on the jaw. Smith's face presented a horrible appearance from the effect of Goddard's blows.

Seventh—Goddard started in to finish the fight, but Smith went to the floor as usual. Most of Goddard's blows were badly aimed and he could not reach a vital point. Smith tried several swinging blows, but they did not hurt Goddard, who seemed perfectly fresh.

Eighth—Smith started into the fight, but Goddard planted his right on Billy's mouth. Smith came groggy and was sent down again. Goddard knocked him over once more and the police interfered. Goddard, taking advantage of the interference, knocked Smith under the ropes. The club officials argued with the police but Short was obdurate and the referee finally declared the fight a draw on account of police interference. At the end of the eighth Goddard expressed his views and said he had not been treated fairly. It was plainly Goddard's fight if it was allowed to continue. He did all the fighting and had Smith at his mercy. It was only a question of a round or two when Smith would have been knocked out.

The Month's Rainfall.

During the rain storm Wednesday afternoon and night, according to information furnished a Bee by Weather Observer Hanner, 1.32 inches of rain fell. During the month, up to that time only .98 inches fell, making a total for the month to that date of 2.30 inches. The average precipitation for August, on a basis of 22 years, is 2.31. The rain Wednesday made up the deficiency.

A Change in Coal Proces.

Mr. S. C. Schenck returned from New York this morning, where he has been in attendance at a meeting of coal agents and operators. It was decided at the meeting, he says, to advance the price of hard coal 25 cents a ton, the advance to go into effect Sept. 1. This will be the only advance that will probably be made this season.

Leave of Absent Granted.

The heads of federal offices here have been notified by the treasury department at Washington to grant leaves of absence to all ex-soldiers and ex-sailors who desire to attend the G. A. R. encampment at Washington, September 20. This leave will be deducted from the 30 days given annually with full pay to all government employes.

Surprise Party.

A large number of friends met at the home of Mr. I. M. Merickel, on Walnut street, last night, and proceeded to the residence of Frank A. Merickel, where the latter gentleman was given a surprise in excellent style. It was a birthday occasion, and those assembled left at a late hour after spending a very pleasant evening, and wishing Mr. Merickel many happy returns of the day.

Toledo Passenger Committee.

The Toledo Passenger committee has held no meetings of late, but by request of several members, Chairman James M. Hall has called a meeting to be held at Hotel Victory, Put-in-Bay, Tuesday, August 30, at 12 o'clock noon. The lack of interest in the meetings that have passed has caused a depression among the members which it is hoped will be removed at the coming meeting. Consequently it is desired that every member be present.

For Infirmary Director.

There are about a dozen candidates for the nomination for infirmary director on the republican ticket. George Jackman, Thomas Crofts, John Balwin and W. Scott have flung their banners to the breeze and demand recognition. The present incumbent, George Reynolds, is also up for re-election and proposes making a red-hot race. It is singular that there should be such a contest over an office that is supposed to pay nothing.

Gueste at the Farm.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon a jolly party entered carriages and proceeded to the Ketcham Farm. Among those in the party were Chief of Police Benj. Raitz, Charles Durian, Mayor Emmick, Police Clerk Geo. W. Leibius, Judge F. M. Sula, John Steadman, Robert Raitz, C. C. Herssig, C. Unbehaun, T. F. Shipherd and Jacob Folger. They will dine at the farm as the guests of Geo. H. Ketcham, and a good time is expected.

Nightingale's Great Time.

The Toledo mare—Nightingale—driven by a Toledo boy—Pickett—is making a world-breaking record in the east. When she belonged to Mr. James Dority, of this city, she was offered to Geo. H. Ketcham for something like $3,000. To-day her owner would not part with her for $50,000. She is proving herself to be one of the greatest animals of the day, and young Pickett, who has sworn by her from the first, is being congratulated by his Toledo friends.

Electrical Workers Meet.

At the meeting of the electrical workers, held last night in Lacy hall, the coming Labor day celebration was discussed, and preparations for a grand electrical display made.

This union will march with the Building Trades council.

The members will carry canes of various colored wires, will wear badges, and have a handsome banner. They expect to have several hundred men in line.

The committee appointed on privileges on the grounds are: Wm. T. Nevitt, O. E. McMahon and J. B. Pryor.

The Brotherhood of Electrical Workers are in first-class shape financially and numerically.

Piekens and Rusk Bound Over.

The preliminary hearing of the case of Ohio against John Rusk and Joseph Peckens occurred in Justice Parker's office yesterday afternoon. Rusk and Peckens are charged with stealing a horse from Eugene Becker.

The accused conducted their own defense and they had summoned quite an array of witnesses from Maumee, to testify in their behalf. The trite saying that the lawyer who tries his own case has a fool for a client held good in this case and the two were bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $800 each. They were unable to give bail and were committed.

Simply Mislaid the Check.

The Bee a few days ago gave the particulars in a somewhat sensational case wherein a wife charged her husband with robbing and then deserting her.

Messrs. Southard and Schunck, the attorneys, employed on either side, believing there was a misunderstanding, proceeded to investigate the case. The husband, as was stated at the time, had not left the city. The man and wife were brought together and returning home, proceeded to search for the missing. It was found in a drawer where the woman had left and forgotten it. They kissed and made up and Mr. Schunck said this morning that everything was lovely again.

Lecture Course.

The arrangements are nearly completed and the dates fixed for four of the lectures, in the course of six, which the Women's Political Equality club propose giving this winter.

On Wednesday, October 19, Lide Merriwether, of Tennessee, will deliver her lecture, "The Silent Seven."

On Wednesday, November 30, Carrie Lane Chapman, of Washington, will lecture on "The Lever of Power."

On January 11, Clara Colby, of Washington, D. C., will lecture on Wyoming.

On Wednesday, February 11, Rev. Anna Shaw will lecture on a subject to be announced later.

The other speakers are Susan B. Anthony, of Rochester, and Mary Livermore, of Boston, and dates of their lectures will also be given later. A course ticket costing $1 will be sold, and it is hoped to defray the expense by this means, as the lecturers are well known and will speak on live subjects.

DESERVED PROMOTION.

Supt. Warth of the Telephone Exchange Goes to Indianapolis.

The many friends of Mr. N. G. Warth, manager of the Toledo Telephone exchange, will learn with regret that he is about to leave Toledo. They will be glad to learn, however, that he has received a well-merited promotion and will hereafter superintend the telephone exchange at Indianapolis. Mr. Warth succeeds Mr. Cherry, formerly of this city, at Indianapolis, and it is understood that Mr. Cherry returns here. The transfer takes place at once, and Mr. Warth leaves for Indianapolis to-morrow evening. He will carry with him the warmest regards of hosts of friends here who will sincerely regret his departure.

Y. M. C. A. TENNIS.

The Scores of the Contestants in the Tournament Up to Date.

The Y. M. C. A. Juniors' tennis tournament progresses merrily. Thus far in singles the preliminaries all have played, but Oblinger and Mills and Quine. The games played have been won as follows:

Young beat C. Upp, score, 7-5, 6-3.
Church beat Waldorf, score, 6-3, 6-4.
W. Upp beat Smith, score, 6-3, 10-8.
Whitney beat Pratt, score, 9-7, 8-10, 10-8.

In doubles the games stand as follows:

Upp Bros. beat Spore and Waldorf, score, 6-3, 6-1.
Taylor and church beat Young and Smith, score, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1.

This afternoon all the preliminaries in singles and doubles will be finished.

One of the best games of the tourney was that between Whitney and Pratt the last thing this morning. Applause was frequent. The tournament will doubtless not be concluded until next Tuesday.

TOLEDO RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES

Have Opened to Them a Way to Do the World's Fair Cheaply.

Messrs. P. G. Turner and F. W. Hamley, of this city, will have charge of the affairs of a peculiar organization in the territory of northern Ohio. It is called the Columbian Visitors' association and was organized specially to provide cheap, pleasant and convenient quarters for members of the Y. P. S. C. E., the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and other societies while at the world's fair.

A mammoth building to contain 1,000 rooms and to accommodate 2,500 people without crowding is in course of construction on the lake shore only seven blocks from the exposition grounds. An imposing feature of the building will be a large auditorium in which will be held meetings of the various societies.

At first the Y. P. S. C. E. thought of putting up a building of its own, but its course has been changed and the members have gone into the visitors' association 5,000 strong.

To become a member a fee of $2 is deposited at first. Then each member is required to make four payments of $2.50 each, to be credited on accommodations reserved. The association charges for rooms will be very modest.

A HANDSOME FLAG

To be Presented to the Best Appearing Union Outside the C. L. U.

Of course the celebration of the workingman's holiday was the subject of special interest discussed at the meeting of the Central Labor union last evening.

Vice-President Fellows presided, President Booth being unable to attend.

The resolution to present any local union, not connected with the Central Labor union, making the finest appearance on Labor day, with a $15 flag, was unanimously adopted.

A committee was appointed to visit the various employers of the city and endeavor to persuade them to allow their employes to take part in the parade. No trouble is anticipated in this respect, as some of the largest employers have already consented to give their men a whole holiday, and have promised other assistance and co-operation.

A committee on invitations was appointed to invite local labor orders not affiliated with the central body, to participate in the parade and compete for the prize.

A resolution indorsing and offering assistance to Tailors' union, No. 166, in their boycott against the Kalm Tailoring company, was indorsed.

Another committee was appointed to meet with Machinists' union, No. 11, and the Working Girls' union at their meetings Monday evening next.

Sunday the arrangements committee on Labor day will meet at Carpenters' hall, as will also the organizing committee with the pattern-makers, to consider the feasibility of organizing a pattern-makers' union.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

onducted by Members of the Adams Township Sunday School Association.

A meeting of the Adams Township Sunday School association was held in the township hall Thursday. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. G. W. Naugle, presided. The music was furnished by the township school.

The opening exercises were conducted by Mr. L. B. Lake, after which recitations by several members of the school occupied the time until 11 o'clock.

Miss Birdie Jones read an excellent paper on the "Formation of Character." This was Miss Jones' first effort as a public essayist, and so pleased were her hearers that an effort will be made to have the paper read before the next meeting of the Lucas County association.

Mr. Crittenden read one lesson from the normal course on "Books and writers of the New Testament."

The following comparative statement was made by Secretary Crittenden, showing the population of the township ten years ago and now, and the number of pupils in the various Sunday schools in '82 and '92:

	1882.	1892.
Population	1,511	2,906
Richards Union school	none	27
Dorr Street union	63	70
Subdivision No. 4	55	none
Town hall	none	60
German (estimated)	none	20
Teneyck (estimated)	none	40

There is 92 per cent. increase in the population, but in the increase are counted the inmates of the asylum. The gain, total, in the Sunday school, amounts to 84 per cent.

At noon an elegant picnic dinner was enjoyed.

The afternoon session opened with a song service led by Mr. Lake. This was was followed by a conference conducted jointly, by Messrs. Lake and Crittenden. The conference dwelt upon the special improvement of Sunday school work, and was participated in by nearly every one present.

The program closed with a 30-minute talk by Secretary Crittenden on "What can the Township association do?"

The next meeting will be held at Richfield, September 14.

THE SAME OLD STORY

Will o' the Wisp Fortune Often Leads to Quagmires.

B. H. Broer Has Been Speculating With Diamonds.

His Creditors Believe He was Honest In His Transactions But Has Been Imposed Upon—Later Developments.

It is very evident that Mr. B. H. Broer, the St. Clair street jeweler, has been the victim of a cleverly operated game of bunco, and developments to-day furnish convincing evidence of that fact.

Nothing is known positive, whether the securities, which Mr. Broer received in the trade are worthless or not, but judging from the manner in which the deal was negotiated it is a clear case of bunco.

The deal was negotiated by these parties. One of them showed up at Mr. Broer's store on South St. Clair street and offered him $2,000 worth of notes at a big discount, the paper being secured by mortgages upon the land in Kentucky.

Mr. Broer was afraid of the title of the property and to allay his fears No. 1 went with him to a certain lawyer's office, where the abstract title was pronounced good. Satisfied with this, Mr. Broer took the paper and traded diamonds and jewelry for it.

Not long after along comes No. 2 with the story that he had heard that Mr. Broer had bought certain notes, properly secured, etc. He knew the security was all right, and that there was money in the investment for somebody. However, there was $1,300 more of the paper that he wanted to get hold of, but could not handle part of it, and would not take any of it unless he could get it all. He would pay Mr. Broer a good round profit for his $2,000 worth, providing he could get hold of it all.

No. 2 said it was no use for him to negotiate with the owner of the $1,300 worth, because the owner would not sell to him. If Mr. Broer would buy it, he would give him $200 for his trouble.

It was the old, old story.

Mr. Broer agreed to get the $1,300 worth if possible, and No. 2 to seal the bargain and to give a substantial aroma to his deal paid a certain amount down. Mr. Broer bought the other $1,300 worth of notes of No. 3, and has them yet. No. 2 has not showed up to take them off his hands at the aforesaid profit. This is evidence of a deep laid conspiracy to swindle Mr. Broer.

Mr. Broer did not have the money or the security to swing this load, but, feeling that he could make some money, by what he deemed a square honest business transaction, he bought the diamonds, and made the trade in that way, supposing that he could turn the paper before he would be compelled to pay for the diamonds.

BRAKES DID NOT WORK.

Serious Railroad Accident in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 26.—Pandemonium reigned in a crowded express train at union station about 10 o'clock this morning.

While the Pullman cars were being attached to the western express on the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railway, control of them was lost and they crashed into a standing section of the train, throwing the passengers in all directions and smashing platforms and windows. A number of passengers were quite severely injured. The injured are: Marcus B. Taylor, Keyport, N. J., severely cut with glass above eyes and badly bruised.

F. S. Wilham, Cleveland, O., painful injuries about head and face.

George A. Neeves, Milwaukee, cut in face and head. His wife and a young son, also badly cut and bruised.

A number of other passengers received minor injuries, but after their wounds had been dressed, all continued on their journey. The accident was unavoidable and it is not thought blame can be attached to the trainmen. The brakes failed to hold when applied.

LABOR RIOT.

Paris, Aug. 26.—A riot occurred at Lievin, a mining town in the department of Pas De Palais. The French miners have for some time been irritated at the importation of miners from Belgium. To-day the Frenchmen attacked the houses where the Belgians lived and smashed their windows. The troops had to be called out to stop the riot. The Belgians, it is believed, will go back to their country for fear of renewed violence.

CHOLERA IN VIENNA.

Vienna, Aug. 26.—Additional precautions are being taken to prevent the spread of cholera. The service of through carriages from Constantinople to Vienna has been suspended like the service from Warsaw to Vienna, for fear of the introduction of the cholera. The carriages to and from Constantinople go only as far as the Austro-Servian frontier at Semlin. There the passengers undergo a medical examination and have to change into different carriages.

TRANSCONTINENTAL.

New York, Aug. 26.—The Transcontinental Railway association resumed their session this morning at the Windsor hotel, Chairman Vining presiding. All members were present with the exception of Mr. George Olds, of the Canadian Pacific, who left for Canada last night.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED,

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever see anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

A leading question—
"Where is Mr. Blaine at?"
Another one—
"How is Mr. Tom Platt?"

With the railways in order again, the price of beef will come down, says an exchange. It is refreshing to hear a protectionist organ confess that anything but taxation reduces the price of commodities.

Horsemen who are emulous of fame may be told that Budd Doble uses no whip, no check rein and no blinders when he drives. These insignia bespeak a defective animal, so says the skilful man with the catarrhal name.

If Chairman Carter said, as reported of him, "There's a d—d sight more hell than harmony in New York," he showed more acumen in sizing up the situation, however the application is made, than people generally have given him credit for.

Canada has placed a duty of five cents a dozen on eggs to offset the similar action of this country. The matter of canal tolls has been settled by a tit-for-tat policy; now when we get retaliation (reciprocity) fixed on all other items of interchanges both countries will grow rich, prosperous and happy. Great scheme.

Mr. Benker, of New York, eloped with his wife's youngest sister. Nothing remarkable about that but the unusual conduct of Mrs. Benker in the matter is noteworthy. Instead of shooting at her sister and hitting somebody else, she took the erring girl home, because of her youth and innocence and told the old scoundrel to go; they had no use for him.

A more ridiculous specimen of a hustle to get in out of the wet to save his patent leathers was ever presented to the American people, than the spry feat (no pun) of Mr. Whitelaw Reid to square himself with the typographical union when he was placed in a position to need their ballots. No such sudden conversion was ever made in a hallelujah camp meeting.

William Dean Howells tore himself loose from his Boston anchorage and went to New York, to make that the literary center of the country. Whether it is Gotham or Mr. Howells, that is unappreciative and unassimilating, may not be known, but the novelist is reported to have said, he "doesn't see how anybody can love New York." Most of all, a bred Bostonian?

The election of Walter B. Ritchie, of Lima, to be supreme vice chancellor of the Knights of Pythias is not only gratifying to members of that valiant order, but is exceedingly pleasing to Mr. Ritchie's friends in Ohio and elsewhere. He is a bright, able and progressive citizen and a leader of politics and business. The Bee extends hearty congratulations.

It is worthy of mention that Philadelphia's defaulting bank officers are all of one political stripe, not necessary to name, and it is disheartening to know that politics, state and national, are mixed up with the financial rascality. The Chicago Mail briefly and pithily puts it: they all "vote as they loot." What with the bankers, the Quay and the "fat" tariff beneficiaries, no wonder the republicans have boasted of their grip on the state and their ability to keep it.

The Calumet and Hecla copper mine is an infant industry protected by a tax of 1, 1 3-4, 1-2, 1 1-4 and 35 per cent. ad valorem on ores, ingots and other forms of the crude metal. On brass in all its forms, the duty is 1 1-2 cents per pound. That it is necessary for farmers, mechanics and all other laborers and tradesmen to pay this tribute to keep the infant from losing its wind is shown by a recent report in which it is recorded that the profits of the firm for the year past were $2,760,000, a dividend of 250 per cent. on investment.

WANTS TO SHIRK THE EXPENSE.

The cost to Pennsylvania of Mr. Carnegie's little episode with his workingmen, moves the Bradford New Era to advance the argument that the troops to suppress insurrection in any of the states should be the regular United States soldiers, not state militia. Not much will the people of other states listen to such a proposition. Pennsylvania mill and mine owners are enriched by government tribute, taken from the people; now let her consequent millionaires and the rest of the people of the state take the responsibility of their own riots. They fill their workshops with wild Hungarians and Sicilians, let them manage them as best they can. Mr. Bob Pinkerton said, sneeringly, "Guess the Carnegies can foot the bills without trouble." If the people of the state don't like their share of the burden let them protest at the polls. That is their redress. The effort to put these specious monopolies under the military protection of the United States soldiers at the expense of the people of all the states, will never be done.

GETTING LEFT, IN CHINA.

One very aggravating feature of the world's progress, to the narrow-grooved McKinleyites, is the fact that their little scheme for robbing their own country and incidentally crippling certain industries in other countries doesn't stop the natural rotary motion of the sphere, or put a brake on the wheels of the world's general advancement. The United States Consul, just home from Amoy, is honest enough to say that, by its course, this country is losing good chances for expansion of trade and the enlargement of its commercial sphere. Steam and electricity are making headway in China. He says:

The telephone, electric light, electroplating, steam launch, elevator and stationary engine are becoming familiar, and are being used. More than a thousand Chinese are engaged in these callings, all or nearly all of whom have learned from English experts, although America leads the world in electric science. It is hardly necessary to state that scores of Europeans find employment in these fields, and are handsomely paid for their services, while Americans are "not in it." Within the past eighteen months Li Hung Chang, the Chinese premier, has established iron and steel mills which promise to equal those of Krupp at Essen. British and continental skill were drawn upon, but the United States had no share in the work. An immense amount of money has gone from Pekin to Germany to pay for arms and ammunition; military supplies were formerly purchased in the United States.

While these things are going on abroad, our people, according to a fool provision in the new exclusion law, are busy taking photographs of Chinese residents in this country so Uncle Sam shall know his own, if any of them ever want passes to go outside the gates. A poor mess we have made of it, since the glory bells rang twenty years ago, proclaiming that the oldest and the youngest nations had joined hands.

THE TEMESCAL SWINDLE.

The San Francisco Examiner is a republican paper, with all the term implies. But a San Franciscan looks at affairs in California, from a Californian's standpoint. It is honest enough to object to having lies, even political lies for the good of the party, told about the state and what appertains thereunto. It became satisfied that the Temescal tin mines were a huge swindle, an unloading of worthless property on English investors at a time made opportune by republican legislation. The Examiner charged fraud and was roundly secred by party papers for the same, whereupon it made the following proposition:

Let the owners or managers of the mine appoint an expert to make an examination in conjunction with an expert that the Examiner will select and make a report thereon. If they are unable to agree on a question of fact let them call in as an arbitrator the state mineralogist. They shall examine the ledges of the tin-bearing ore, expert the books and see how much tin has been produced and the cost of the same, ascertain how much the mine has cost the stockholders and what the prospects are for future dividends or assessments, and make a joint report. If they find the Examiner has made and misstatement about the mine's output, cost or condition we will cheerfully publish their report and pay all the expenses of the experting. If, on the other hand, they find that the Examiner's statements were correct, their report shall be given to the public and the managers of the Temescal tin mines shall pay the cost of the experting.

The offer was made weeks ago, and has called forth no response. This is the expose made by the Examiner:

The latest report from the mine indicates that the fraud is on its last legs. The mine was sold on the representation that it would produce at least 150 tons of tin per month. During July the product, it appears, was 13,000 pounds, or 6 1-2 tons, worth at 24 cents per pound $3,120, while the average expenses of the mine have been over $15,000 per annum. This was derived from furnace slag, mine pillars, tailings and waste rock; in other words, from odds and ends and left-over rubbish. The stuff crushed did not, it is stated, average 1 per cent in tin, and did not pay for the single item of milling. The total output of the mine from March 1, 1891, to July 31, 1892, has been 283,343 pounds, or 141 3-10th tons—less by 8 7-10th tons for seventeen months than was promised for every single month, with the additional lure to the hapless British capitalist that the output could be doubled with adequate machinery.

This "tin plate liar" is of the republican household of faith, but he doesn't scare or take back water.

BAIT FOR THE ANARCHISTS.

In the last seven months the immigration to this country, aside from the thousands who have come in from Canada, reached the immense total of 403,147, or 32,000 more than the corresponding period last year. Hungary furnished the largest gain, 10,749, while Russia was a good second with 8,431, and Scandinavia third with 7,223. The immigration from Great Britain fell 4,032. Italy also shows a falling off of 6,500, and Germany a gain of almost 8,000. Many of these credited to Germany, however, are doubtless Russians and further swell the volume of undesirable new-comers. All told, more than two-thirds of the increase in immigration in the past seven months is from Slavic countries, a fact that only needs to be known to make the gain doubly unwelcome.—Cleveland Leader.

And yet, all measures that tend to bring these unwelcome immigrants to our shores are approved, aided and abetted by the Leader and the political party of its choice. It believes in turning the workers into the streets to starve in the old countries, and filling their ears with the glowing promises of fat things that await them in the United States. It believes, supposably, in contract labor in protected mills and mines, else its voice would sometime be raised against this defiance of the country's law and well-being and it would read its own party beneficiaries a lesson. With these conditions, the boasted work of the republican party, and with ship owners ready to transport "the paupers" across the sea like cattle at less than cattle rates, what else could be expected? Those who consent to the premises should not squirm at the logical conclusion. True American prosperity does not require the foreign capitalist with his foreign airs and methods, or the foreign laborer and his crude ideas of liberty and his wage-reducing cheapness, over here in great numbers. Yet the glowing pictures made by a political party for partisan purposes, tempt them both, and then the ones who are guilty of the action deplore their presence and attempt to shoulder the blame on American laborers, who have been degraded and discomfited by it. The alien capitalist is welcomed and the trumpet sounded for him, because his presence is a sign that a tribute-paying people are a good foundation for big profits for favored classes.

The most astonishing item in the report is the fact that the immigration of labor from free trade England to this country has notably decreased. The hordes from the other countries are "protected" at home, more or less, as high or low customs tax is supposed to protect labor. These very stubborn facts and figures prove that a tariff tax on commodities has no effect on this country or any other, except to give the manufacturers of the special articles a monopoly of the home market and help him to regulate prices to insure his own profits. Labor is not "in it" at all.

Too Expensive for His Value.

Harrison is responsible before the country for the increased expense of his radical administration. He is costing the country a round hundred million a year more than Arthur cost it. Where is the republican who will say that Harrison is worth this much more for the country? It may be that we are to have another republican president in the future. If so, let us get one who costs less and is worth more for the money.—St. Louis Republic.

The Influential Factor.

The democrats carry Wisconsin? Not while I have a bank account.—Senator Sawyer.

An Senator Sawyer gave emphasis to his remark by handing Treasurer Bliss, of the republican committee a check for $20,000. As Mr. Sawyer's bank account has represented Wisconsin in the United States senate for some years, it is certainly an influential factor in Wisconsin politics.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Once Before, Oh, Dandy Whitelaw.

The visit of Whitelaw Reid to Chicago will serve to remind Illinois republicans that he visited that city once before. That was in 1880, and his mission was to assist in the work of preventing the nomination for the presidency of a man Illinoisans delight to honor—Gen. U. S. Grant.—Chicago Mail.

BUNCOED IN CHICAGO

A South Dakota Man Falls Among Confidence Men.

The Glare of the Sun Does Not Deter the Plucky Thieves.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—A daring robbery was committed on the lake front the other morning in broad daylight. Joseph Waterson, of Pennington, S. D., was knocked down under the very eyes of the police and relieved of $110 by four confidence men. Though Michigan avenue, not two hundred feet away from the scene of the struggle, was thronged with carriages and pedestrians, the robbers eluded pursuit.

A large force of detectives is on the track of the confidence men and it is expected that they will be caught soon. It is thought that the perpetrators of the robbery belong to the organized gang which has lately waylaid and assaulted so many men on the lake front.

A park policeman, who saw the struggle from a distance, was standing at the corner of Peck court and Michigan avenue about 10 o'clock when he saw some men scuffling on the lake front near Eldrige court. At first he thought they were in sport, but when he saw one man fall heavily to the ground after being struck by another, he ran toward them. Three of the men hurried down to the lake shore and disappeared behind a row of freight cars and the fourth ran into a dark alley. When the policeman reached the fallen man he was just recovering consciousness and his face and throat were covered with blood. At first he seemed dazed and unable to tell a clear story.

Joseph Waterson is an intelligent, well-dressed farmer, 27 years old. Last week he left his home in Dakota to visit friends in New York, little expecting that he would be robbed of his last cent in Chicago and be compelled to spend a night behind iron bars.

"I was waiting at the Dearborn street station for my train east," he said, "when a young fellow came up and began to talk with me. I told him it was the first time I had taken a trip in many years and that I had never been in Chicago before. When he learned that I had nearly two hours to wait he invited me to go down to Lake Michigan with him and see the world's fair buildings.

We met one man on our way and two at the lake front, all of whom seemed well acquainted with my companion. They soon began betting on being able to open a lock which one of them had found, and I, thinking I knew how it worked, loaned my friend $10 with which to bet, and he lost it. Then they all began bragging about their money and betting large sums on the lock. Presently I foolishly pulled out a $100 bill which I had and held it in my hand. One of the men suddenly grabbed it and another struck me a heavy blow in the face. That was the last I remember. I believe I was hit with a sand bag or brass knuckles, for the blow was too hard for a man's bare hand. The money which they took I have been saving up for many years, and if the thieves are not caught I shall be terribly discouraged. It was my last dollar."

TIP-O-TIP AGAIN.

He Used to Masquerade as a Servant Girl

And Hiring Out To a Family Would Work Quietly a Few Weeks When He Would Open the House for His Pals.

Since Tip-o-Tip's arrest at Louisville, further discoveries have been made regarding the peculiar workings of the gang.

Tip-o-Tip had many ways by which he robbed the wealthy and the poor alike. He would dress in the garb of a woman, and, acting the negress to perfection, would apply for a position as cook or house girl in houses of prominent and wealthy families. As soon as he had remained long enough at one place to learn the general run of things and the location of the valuables, he would let his two white pals in during the night, who would take everything takable. After the robbery all three would leave. They operated successfully in almost every large city in the union, especially in Ohio, and until a few years ago had never been suspected.

When arrested he had a valise containing all kinds of female apparel—a looking-glass, combs, brushes, etc.—in fact, everything that would assist him in his business.

About a year ago Tip was in Louisville and decided to give a lecture at the Center Street Colored Methodist church. When the time arrived for the services to begin Tip-o-Tip was missing. The church was crowded with a crowd that had every tension of their nerves aroused, thinking they were to behold a man from their far-off country. After everyone had got tired waiting, and decided there would be no lecture, a scream was heard near the door and Tip-o-Tip was seen to be running down the aisle toward the pulpit. The only garment he wore was a cotton cloth girded about his hips. He was painted in a horrible fashion, and had feathers stuck in his hair, which was of the blonde color. The effect on the audience can better be imagined than described.

SHIFTING ITS CHANNEL.

Workmen Diverting the Course of the Des Plaines River.

Work on the Drainage Canal Proper to Begin September 1.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Preliminary work on the drainage canal has been commenced by contractors in charge of the new channel for the Des Plaines river, which must be turned out of its bed before excavation for the canal can begin.

The new channel of the Des Plaines will be 300 feet from the canal. It will be 200 feet wide and from two to four feet deep. The soil and rock removed in making the new bed will be used in constructing a protective levee on the canal side of the river, and it is possible that this levee will be used as a new road-bed by the Santa Fe, whose present tracks will be interfered with in a few places by the canal. The new river channel will be completed in about two months and then the enlarging of the old channel to a depth of 35 feet and a width of 160 feet will begin.

It was in section No. 10, nearly midway between Lamont and Romeo, that work was begun yesterday. The contractors are Ed. D. Smith & Co., of Baltimore. Jones M. Jackson is superintending the work. In nearly every other section the river will be turned into a new course, but this is the only section in which the bed will be the route of the canal. Contractors for other sections of the canal are rapidly getting in readiness to begin work.

The work contracted for covers about two-thirds of the work of excavation between the Chicago river and Joliet. Six miles more were advertised Saturday last, which covers the work from Willow Springs to Summit, and this the commission expects to let before November 1. All the right of way over the 20 miles from Summit to Lockport will probably be in hand by that date. Meantime progress is being made between Summit and the waters of the Chicago river and between Lockport and Joliet. All the work is let on the basis of completion by May 1, 1896. The total cost of the main outlet between the Chicago river and Joliet will be between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.

Commissioner Cooley said yesterday that if the promise of the work is carried to its logical conclusion, with proper government co-operation, seven years more will not only see the sanitary question solved, but also the waterway completed between the lakes and the Mississippi and a suitable harbor secured to the city of Chicago.

THE TOLEDO CADETS

To Give Their New Bicycle Drill

At the Toledo Exposition Grounds—Death of the Little Aeronaut, Gertie Carmo.

The Toledo Cadets, the only military organization in the world equipped with bicycles, have been engaged by the Toledo Exposition company to give an exhibition bicycle drill at the fair grounds, on Wednesday, September 7.

The Cadets have only had the machines a few months, but the rigid and constant training they have received, has given them complete mastery of these untamed steeds, and the drill they give is wonderful. They will also have a foot drill, and Wednesday will be a big day at the exposition grounds.

The little aeronaut, Gertie Carmo, who was to have made the balloon ascension, met her death yesterday at Detroit. The ascension will be made, however, and an effort will be made to secure the services of Miss Laura Desmoines, a handsome young woman, who has accomplished some daring feats, with parachutes, and has made many successful balloon ascensions this season.

The bicycle races are attracting a great deal of attention and are to be made a special feature of the big show. Messrs. Johnson and Zimmerman, the world's champion riders, will be present and give exhibitions in fancy riding and speeding.

Inquiries for privileges and entries are pouring into the office and the arrangements are rapidly nearing completion for the greatest show Toledo has ever seen.

A SENSATION ABROAD.

The Town of Saltaire Was Not a Success.

A Bellamy Village that Did Not Pan Out as Its Promoters Wished.

London, Aug. 26.—A meeting has been summoned of the shareholders in the company of Salt & Son, owners of the famous factories at Saltaire, on the River Aire, about three miles from Bradford.

Saltaire is known as the model village, the late Sir Titus Salt having established there homes for his operatives, with surroundings according to most improved and progressive plans.

The business of the company has of late become so depressed that it is seriously proposed to wind it up.

The company is a limited one, and was formed in 1881 with a capital of one million two hundred and fifty thousand pounds, to conduct the business of the late Sir Titus Salt.

The late losses of the company is attributed to the McKinley bill, which has deprived the company of a considerable market.

The assets of the concern are valued at upwards of a quarter of a million pounds sterling beyond liabilities.

The trade liabilities are about 200,000 pounds.

The firm formerly manufactured altogether alpacas and worsted, but of recent years has chiefly manufactured plush goods. Since the McKinley law went into operation the business has been reduced to a tenth of its former magnitude. The concern once employed four thousand operatives and visitors from all parts of the world were pointed with pride to the model town of Sir Titus Salt. The news of the condition of the company has caused a widespread sensation in trade circles.

MORLEY RE-ELECTED.

Close of the Contest at New Castle-on-Tyne.

London, Aug. 26.—The Right Hon. John Morley has been re-elected at New Castle-on-Tyne by 12,983 votes to 11,344 votes for Pendeli Rulli, candidate of the conservatives and liberal unionists.

In the general election when one conservative and two liberal candidates were in the field, New Castle having two members, the vote was as follows: Alderman Hamond, conservative, 13,823; John Morley, liberal, 10,905; J. Craig, liberal, 10,686.

It will thus be seen that Mr. Morley narrowly escaped defeat in the general election. The result of yesterday leaves New Castle represented as before, by Hamond, conservative, and Morley, liberal, and saves Mr. Gladstone from the humiliation of having one of his cabinet officers rejected at the polls.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

Rome, Aug. 26.—The congregation of the propaganda has requested the French government to protest to Great Britain against the closing of Catholic schools in Manitoba.

The request is made on the ground of the rights guaranteed to the French Catholics of Canada when that country was annexed by Great Britain, the Roman Catholics of Manitoba being largely of French descent.

A Question Answered.

"What proportion of the tin plate used in this country is made here at the present time?"

None, we think. About 1 per cent. is the figure, if we count as American tin plates the British black plates imported and tinned here. The importation of these plates in the whole year ending June 30, 1890, before the McKinley bill went into operation, was only 2,208 pounds. It shot up to 5,418,522 pounds in nine months ending March 31, 1892, and during this time the treasury department reported a manufacture of 5,240,830 pounds of American tin plate, showing that there remained at that time 177,722 pounds of British black plate to be tinned. The duty on black plate is $1.65 per 100 pounds, while on tin plate it is $2.20 per 100 pounds. This affords a fine chance for profit, at the expense of the consumer, since the plate dipping is scarcely more complicated than dipping one's self in the ocean on the Jersey shore. The annual consumption of tin and terne plates in this country is about 680,000,000 pounds, and the tax paid on it either to the government or to private individuals is close upon $15,000,000.—New York Evening Post.

IT CANNOT GET IN.

Cholera is Barred From American Ports.

The Government Officials are Very Alert.

The English Government Using All Its Energies to Keep the Fatal Disease on the Continent.

New York, Aug. 26.—The fear of any epidemic here of that dreaded scourge, the Asiatic cholera, which is creating fearful havoc in Northern Europe, has, according to Health Officer Jenkins, been exaggerated by published reports. So stringent have been the precautions to prevent the landing of any suspicious cases at this port that quarantine officers have little fear that the scourge will get a foothold in this country.

Dr. Jenkins was seen at the quarantine station, Fort Wadsworth, this morning, and stated that from advices he has received he has kept a list of the infected places in Europe, which includes all of Russia, the cities of Metz, Stettin, Posen, Silesia, Danzig, Kattowitz, Ruhlehen, Pillau, Hamburg, and Neiderburm in Germany; Paris and some of its suburbs in France; 12 cities in Roumania; five places at Brindisi, and three cities in Austria.

On the 23d instant he received word from the United States consul at Hamburg through Secretary Foster that no steamers will be given "clean" bills of health for American ports from there, and United States Consul Kellogg at Stettin reported that the steamer Italia had sailed from that port on the 5th instant with 10 passengers on board from the infected districts. Immediately on receipt of this last message Dr. Jenkins wired Secretary Foster, asking that the consul at Stettin be instructed to take the same precautions as are now in force at Berlin and Hamburg. He also wired for reports of specific cases of cholera at Steamship company, obtained a promise there reported that no cases of absolute cholera existed there.

Dr. Jenkins, after a long conference with the agents of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, obtained a promise from them that all passengers, before being allowed to embark at that port, shall be first examined by the health officer.

Prof. Herman Biggs, the bacteriologist, who was sent to Europe a few weeks ago by the government at Dr. Jenkins' suggestion, returned last Monday and reported to Dr. Jenkins that he investigated the precautions taken at Berlin, Hamburg and Stettin against the shipment of infected persons. At the two former ports the immigrants are inspected on arrival, and during their stay at lodging houses in the city, if found suffering from any suspicious symptoms, they are isolated for from 14 to 16 days. This he considers the greatest safeguard against the disease being brought here.

Dr. Biggs will issue a full report of his investigation in Europe late this week. In Stettin he reports that the inspection of immigrants is more lax than at either Hamburg or Berlin, hence Dr. Jenkins requests rigid precautions at that port. So far the quarantine officials, acting on Dr. Jenkins' instructions, have detained any immigrant suffering from any symptoms of disease. All the baggage of immigrants from suspected districts has been disinfected, and all baggage from Russia has been so treated since the typhus cases were discovered a few weeks ago. No rags have been allowed to be landed from foreign ports without consular certificates of their disinfection at that port of shipment.

There are five vessels due this week from Hamburg. These ships have about 2,000 immigrants aboard. They will be detained at quarantine and thoroughly examined.

The French line steamship La Tourraine, which left Havre last Sunday, is due here on Saturday. As cholera is also reported at Havre, the vessel will be duly subjected to quarantine regulations on her arrival.

PORTER'S REPORT.

Census Not Very Correct if This is the Sample.

He Says There Are But 183 Chinese in Ohio—Will the Chinaman Register—What Mr. Waldorf Says.

If Commissioner Porter is as correct in the census taken of white citizens as he has been of the Chinese, the population of the country is fully 25 per cent. more than that presented by him.

In the following self-explanatory communication it will be readily seen that the commissioner is away off:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23, 1892.

G. P. Waldorf, Esq., Collector Tenth District, Toledo, Ohio.

Sir:—You are advised that, as shown by the last census, there are 183 Chinese in the state of Ohio of which your district is a part.

As the data gathered on this subject by the census office do not indicate the different parts of the states in which the Chinese are located, the best information this office can furnish you is the total for the state.

Respectfully yours,
G. W. WILSON,
Deputy Commissioner.

"There is a mistake somewhere," Revenue Collector Waldorf said to a Bee this morning. "We will have, I expect upwards of a hundred Chinese in this district alone."

There are said to be over 50 in Cincinnati and almost as many in Cleveland.

"It is said that the Chinese will protest against registering, Mr. Waldorf. What is there in that?"

"I really don't know; of course it will be hard for some of them, particularly in the large cities to find two American citizens to swear that they have known them for five years. I was speaking with Secretary Foster when he was here, on the subject and he too thought there would be some trouble."

MADISON STREET BOOMS

Three Heavy Deals To-Day and Yesterday

Which Will Result in the Erection of Fine Blocks.

The Colton Block Deal Will Bring $75,000—Two Others Aggregating $80,000—What the Buyers Say.

Since the sale of the Ketcham tract adjoining the Toledo club building, a week ago, Madison street real estate has taken on a large sized boom.

Mr. Jerry Dewey, who transacted the above deal is interested in three and probably four others of much greater importance.

The three deals when definitely closed will aggregate something like $150,000.

The largest of these in which Col. S. C. Reynolds is said to be interested is the Colton block on Madison, between Huron and Erie, and comprising five very fine residences, all of which bring in good rentals.

Col. Reynolds was asked by a Bee if he had purchased the property. He would neither deny or affirm the report, but laughingly said:

"He is a wise man who knows enough to keep his own secrets."

Mr. Dewey was afterwards asked as to the reports. He was very reticent.

"I will tell you this. I have transacted three large deals within as many days, but none of them are in shape for publication, and probably will not be before Monday."

"How much will the sales aggregate?"

"Oh, that depends. One is $75,000, one $20,000 and one more."

Another sale reported in this connection was that of the Toledo Transfer property from Geo. W. Davis to Spitzer & Co.

Mr. A. L. Spitzer was busily engaged looking over plans with Architect Huber when a Bee entered.

"Have you purchased the Davis property on Madison street?" he was asked.

"Not yet," was the guarded reply. "We are negotiating for it, though."

"If you secure it will you put up a double block there?"

"That is our intention if we secure it. We have bought the corner lot, and on the two there will be room for a fine business block."

Mr. Spitzer, if he secures the Transfer property, will have 120 feet front on Madison street and about as much more on Huron. A very handsome business block can be erected on the tract and undoubtedly will be.

The third deal is said to be a handsome residence on Madison, near Eighteenth street. Who the buyer or seller is at present unknown. The price is $20,000.

It was reported that the King tract on Superior street, between Madison and Adams streets, had been sold, but Mr. Frank I. King says that while negotiations are pending with a view of selling, no definite action has been taken.

Altogether it looks as if there were to be some fine blocks put up in that locality.

HEALTH BOARD.

Dr. Probst Discussing Cholera at Indianapolis.

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—Dr. Probst, secretary of the Ohio board of health, will to-day meet Dr. McCormick, of Kentucky, and Dr. Baker, of Michigan, in Indianapolis. These three gentlemen compose the executive committee of the national conference of state boards of health, and the meeting is called to consider the threatened invasion of cholera, together with other subjects tha interest the national organization.

Yesterday the Illinois state board wired Secretary Probst a copy of a telegram sent by that board to Surgeon-General Wayman concerning his recent order. The telegram reads:

"In view of the westward spread of cholera in Europe, the Illinois state board of health earnestly requests that you extend the scope of your order of the 18th so as to include all arrivals from European ports, English included.

"It is also urged that the order be made operative forthwith. The services of the board are at your disposal in any manner you may indicate."

The Illinois board then asks the Ohio board to add its influence in favor of extending the order, and to have it go into effect at once. The communication will be laid before the national executive committee by Dr. Probst to-day. The order referred to has reference to the inspection of vessels and all persons arriving from European ports.

TELEGRAPHERS TO STRIKE

Believed That the Keys Will be Silent.

An Important Meeting to be Held September 2 in Kansas City.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26.—For a third time the telegraphers of America will do battle with their employers.

After four years of incessant labor they have effected an organization national in scope and determined in purpose.

On September 2 delegates representing all sections of the country will meet at Kansas City under the banner of the "International Universal Telegraphers' Association of North America," and thereafter all operators will be distinguished by those who are "flying the flag" and those who are not.

It is generally believed that a strike will follow the Kansas City meeting.

STATE LAND

Settled upon by Millersport (O.) People—Strange Predicament.

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—The state canal commission discovered to-day that nearly half of the village of Millersport, Fairfield county, is on state land. Commissioner Round and Hartnett will go to Millersport to effect a settlement with the inhabitants. The land is a part of the tract purchased by the state for canal purposes, and has been gradually encroached upon until the present occupants lost sight of the fact that it was not their property.

ENGAGED.

Adrian, Mich., Aug. 26.—The engagement of Elizabeth Musgrave Croswell, widow of the late governor, Charles M. Croswell, of this city, to T. D. Merrill, a lumberman, of Saginaw, has become public. Mrs. Croswell's residence for the past three years has been in Chicago. She is the daughter of the late Judge Musgrave, of Charlotte, and sister-in-law of ex-United States Comptroller of the Currency E. S. Lacey.

FOUR DEAD.

Snake Story With Side Attractions from Georgia.

Athens, Ga., Aug. 26.—A story has reached here from Madison county telling of the sad death of the four children of a family named Wilson, in the short time of 40 minutes, three of them from the bite of a rattlesnake and the other by drowning.

The sad affair occurred a few days ago. Mrs. Wilson went to a spring near the house for water, taking the baby with her. She had left the house but a short time when screams attracted her attention and hastening there she found two of her children dead and the third one sick. The little fellow, however, was able to talk and said they had poked their fingers through a crack in the floor and a hen under the house had bitten them.

Mrs. Wilson hurried back to the spring and there found that her little baby had crawled into the spring and been drowned.

When the mother returned to the house she found the little boy also dead. Some time later the father returned. Search was made and a huge rattlesnake was found under the house and killed.

CHICAGO'S LATEST.

A Sky-Scraper to be Built of Glass and Aluminium.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The Chicago Leasehold trustees, an organization recently effected for the purpose of erecting a building on the northwest corner of State and Madison streets, has accepted the plans for the building and work will commence immediately. The property has a frontage on State street of 66 feet and 106 feet on Madison street. It was leased to Otto Young two years ago for 99 years at an annual rental of $32,000 and by him sublet to the Leasehold association for $36,000 per year. The association is capitalized for $720,000.

The building will mark a new era in structural work, as the exterior will be constructed entirely of aluminum and glass, and promises to be a marvel of modern architecture. It will be 16 stories high and will cost $500,000. The first story will be of ordinary story height, and the stories above 12 feet, 10 feet 6 inches and 11 feet in the clear. The windows will occupy the entire distance between the stories, save the small amount of space required for the mullions, and each window will have two sheets of plate glass 11 feet long, joined at the center with a line of aluminum, making practically one plate of glass 22 feet long. It will be seen that the dimensions of

LITTLE HOMER'S SLATE.

After dear old grandma died,
Hunting through an oaken chest
In the attic, we espied
What repaid our childish quest;
'Twas a homely little slate,
Seemingly of ancient date.

On its quaint and battered face
Was the picture of a cart
Drawn with all that awkward grace
Which betokens childish art;
But what meant this legend, pray:
"Homer drew this yesterday?"

Mother recollected then
What the years were fain to hide—
She was but a baby when
Little Homer lived and died;
Forty years, so mother said,
Little Homer had been dead.

This one secret through those years
Grandma kept from all apart,
Hallowed by her lonely tears
And the breaking of her heart;
While each year that sped away
Seemed to her but yesterday.

So the homely little slate
Grandma's baby's fingers pressed,
To a memory consecrate,
Lieth in the oaken chest,
Where, unwilling we should know,
Grandma put it years ago.

A physician says that the first thing to enter a sick room and the last to be taken out should be a disinfectant. Most people do not appreciate the value of pure air for the sick, and many, even of professional nurses, are so careless in this respect that they will completely ignore all rules of ventilation and allow the air of the room to become so impure as to render it unfit even for a healthy person, to say nothing of one weakened by disease. It often happens that the recovery of a patient depends as much on pure air and cleanliness as upon medical treatment, and hence the need of ventilation and disinfectants to ranove all disease.

A PALPABLE HIT.

He was not a nice man. They all said so; but then they were all agreed beforehand that Cora de Lancey never did know nice men, or, at all events, that after a short time they would not know her, and the mere fact that they were, or seemed to be, on the best terms was taken as condemning him at once. The Brigsby-Smiths are very nice, very quiet, and very hospitable; so that when Cora de Lancey turned up at Lord's and asked if they could give her a lunch they assented at once, and, outwardly at least, welcomed her escort. There was nothing to find fault with in his appearance; he was habited in the frock coat of respectability, combined with the white waistcoat and buttonhole of frivolity; his hat was brilliant, and his necktie, if it showed rather to excess, was spotless. His conversation, too, was of cricket, cricketv, and to the ladies, at all events, its details appeared correct. Some of the men frowned and said nothing in response to some of his criticisms of the game; but perhaps they were jealous at points in the play being discovered by another man which they had not observed. And their silence had no effect on his exuberance, while his good humor soon won responsive smiles from Mrs. Rigsby-Smith, who is as good natured as she is wanting in discernment of character.

"At all events," said Isabel Brigsby-Smith to her cousin May, "Mr. Allomby is our guest, and Mr. Batterfield, whoever he may be, need not have been so rude to him."

"Mr. Allomby can take care of himself," said May, but at the same time she looked rather fiercely toward the box seat of the carriage, where Miss de Lancey and her cavalier were finishing what had been rather a protracted meal with strawberries and cream. Mr. Allomby was a young clergyman whom May had herself introduced to her cousins. "He is nearsighted," she said, "and a little ugly, but he is certainly of a very good family, and will have the family living soon." Certainly Mr. Batterfield had not been civil to him. Mr. Allomby had a slight impediment in his speech, and Mr. Batterfield had interrupted him in the middle of a long, and possibly not very amusing, story; had contradicted him three times flatly during lunch; had alluded to the Oxford and Cambridge match as the "Parson's Drunk," and had asked some riddle, the answer to which was that a Biblical scholar stood up with the eleven and was bowled, and someone else made a long stop at Athens, which every one had heard before, and which could only have been asked for the purpose of casting indirect ridicule on Mr. Allomby.

"If I were you I should ask him to give up the box seat before play begins," said May to her cousin; "the interval will be over soon, and we shall be turned off the ground. He does not look much like moving at present."

"They will go back to their seats directly," said Isobel.

"But they haven't any. Cora de Lancey told me they they had been turned out of block B, and that Mr. Batterfield had said he was a member of the M. C. C., and that he would report the attendant who wouldn't believe him. He was very angry."

"He told me they had very good seats. He said nothing of being turned out," said Isobel Brigsby-Smith.

"Then I think they will stay where they are," said her cousin; and so they did. They sat on the box seat of the carriage during the finest innings of the day, while those inside could only see by standing up, and added insult to injury by informing those who sat down of the features of the game as it progressed.

Mr. Batterfield's sympathies were strongly tinged with Light Blue, and his hostess sons were Oxford men; but it made no difference.

"Well done, Cambridge. What a stroke!" he cried, enthusiastically.

"Awful pull, wasn't it?" said Jim Brigsby-Smith, gruffly.

"Well cut, sir!" cried Mr. Batterfield, so loudly that every one near looked around.

"More of a snick than a cut," said Bill Brigsby-Smith, in freezing tones.

"These Oxford fellows can't bowl a hang," said Mr. Batterfield. "The captain ought to change them at once."

Both brothers grunted simultaneously and left the carriage; only Mr. Allomby remained with the ladies. The hitting was very fine and free at that period of the game; time after time the ball skimmed to the boundary, and eager, brown-faced old gentlemen and equally eager little schoolboys competed for the honor of stopping it and jerking it back to the nearest fieldsman. As a matter of fact, several different bowlers were tried with no effect whatever.

"There's another! By Jove, it's over!" cried Mr. Batterfield. "Clean over the ropes—clean into the crowd. Pity longleg was not there."

"He couldn't have caught it if he had been," said May, in her most combative tones.

"Oh, yes, he could," said Mr. Batterfield, patronizingly, "if he had been a good man."

"How?" said Isobel, backing her cousin up.

"By jumping," sad Mr. Batterfield: "I did it myself once—the year I was in the Cambridge eleven. Dear me," he went on, "eighteen years ago is a very long time: I don't wonder none of you remember it."

May and Isobel were aged 21 and 23, respectively, and had had no London season 18 years before.

Mr. Allomby sa'd nothing; he was vainly trying to recall the cricket celebrities of his school days, though he appeared to be intently watching the game through his spectacles. Mr. Batterfield continued:

"Yes, it was 18 years ago, in this very match. Potterton was making runs at a fearful rate; he made twelve off h's first over and seven off the next. You remember J. V. Potterton; he does not play much now—dead, I believe. Well, Potterton was batting and I was long-leg, and I moved up almost where we are now—somewhere between here and the clock, anyhow. I forget the name of the bowler at the Pavilion end; but he pitched a ball rather far, just off Potterton's legs, and he caught it fair."

"I thought you were going to say you caught it," said Cora de Lancey, from the box.

"Of course, I know," said Mr. Batterfield, impatient at the interruption: "he hit it—I meant that—and just as it was going over the heads of the first row of people I jumped the ropes at full speed and held it with one hand. There was some discussion afterward, but the umpire gave it out."

"Ishould think they applauded you well," sa'd Cora de Lancey.

"I should think they applauded you Batterfield, and then stopped; it was Mr. Allomby's voice this time that interrupted him—a very clear, shrill voice with a little stammer.

"Wasn't P-potterton—left-handed?"

Mr. Batterfield looked around angrily. "Well, I dare say. What if he was?"

"L-l-long leg would have stood the other s'de n-not here."

Mr. Batterfield looked very angry.

"Well hit! well hit!" cr'ed May Brigsby-Smith, approvingly, though the stroke made by the Cambridge captain had only sent the ball high into the air, whence it descended into the bowler's hands. After the applause which followed had subs'ded, it was found that Cora de Lancey and Mr. Batterfield were clambering down and departing.

"Really, Mr. Allomby," said Isobel, "you caught him very cleverly. How did you know Mr. Potterton batted left-handed?"

"Upon my honor," sa'd Mr. Allomby, "I don't know it; but I felt sure that man didn't know either, because he never played in a 'Varsity eleven."

"Mr. Allomby! Mr. Allomby!" cried Mrs. Brigsby-Smith, reproovingly, "do you think you were quite right?"

"I drew a bow at a venture," he said.

"And bowled out Mr. Batterfield," said May. With which metaphorical combination the incident closed. But May sa'd on the way home, thoughtfully, "I sa'd he was able to take care of himself and he was."—St. James Budget.

LENGTH OF VARIOUS MILES.

How They Differ in Different Countries Where the Term is Used.

It is no wonder that there is some uncertainty about the length of the mile. English-speaking countries have four different miles—the ordinary mile of 5,280 feet, and the geographical or nautical mile of 6,085, making a difference of about one-seventh between the two; then there is the Scotch mile of 5,928 feet, and the Irish mile of 6,720 feet; four various miles, every one of which is still in use. Then almost every country has its own standard mile, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Romans had their mill passuum, 1,000 paces, which must have been about 3,000 feet in length, unless we ascribe to Caesar's legionaries great stepping capacity.

The German mile of to-day is 24,318 feet in length, more than four and a half times as long as our mile.

The Dutch, the Danes, and the Prussians enjoy a mile that is 18,440 feet long, three and a half times the length of ours; and the Swiss get more exercise in walking one of their miles than we get in walking five miles, for their mile is 9,153 yards long, while ours is only 1,760 yards.

The Italian mile is only a few feet longer than ours, the Roman mile is shorter, while the Tuscan and the Turkish miles are 150 yards longer. The Swedish mile is 7,341 yards long, and the Vienna post mile is 8,296 yards in length.

So here is a list of 12 different miles; and besides this there are other measures of distance, not counting the French kilometer, which is rather less than two-thirds of a mile.

The Brazilians have a millia that is one and one-fourth times as long as our mile; the Neapolitan miglio is about the same length; the Japanese ri, or mile, is two and one-half times ours; the Russian verst is five-eighths as long as our mile; while the Persian scandard is a fersakh, four and a half miles long, which is said to be equal to the parasang, so familiar to the readers of Xenophon's "Anabasis."

The league that is familiar to readers of French and Spanish books varies just as does the mile. In Brazil it is three and four-fifths miles long, in France it was three miles, in Spain it was two and two-thirds miles and once on a time in Eng and it was two and one-half miles long. The only measure that is about the same in every country is the meter, and even that varies slightly, for in France it is 39.370432 inches in length, while in this country it is 39.37079 inches—a difference to be mentioned, but not to be considered in practice.

Sometime ago there was quite an excitement among pianists on the subject of the third finger ligament. Some surgeons started the idea that if the ligament uniting the second and third fingers were divided the difficulty of using the third finger in piano playing would vanish. There was a great deal of talk of surgical operations on this line, and it is said several were actually performed in the east, but the result was unsatisfactory, for, instead of freeing the finger, the operation actually stiffened it, and no more were attempted. The only thing that can free the third finger and make it equal with the others is earnest and assiduous practice.

BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO.

SO SAY WE ALL OF US.

I'm an old smoker, and have at one time or another tried all the different Smoking Tobaccos, but for a good smoke Bull Durham beats 'em all.

A leading characteristic of Bull Durham has always been the hold which it takes on old and fastidious smokers. What its excellence first secured, its uniformity has always retained, and it is, therefore, to-day as twenty-five years ago, the most popular Smoking Tobacco in the world.

MISFIT MISFIT MISFIT

MOTHERS SOUND ITS PRAISES.

Physicians Advise the General Use of the Purest and Best of Foods for Little Folks.

Ignorance on the part of the parents has caused the death of more infants in Ohio towns this summer than all other causes combined. Said a local physician yesterday:

"Many a household might have been saved the sorrow of a lost child if the little one had only been properly fed, if the parents had followed the advice of those who know best about such things, and heeded the experience of many of their neighbors.

"Lactated food given instead of the poor substances that have caused such fatal indigestion as has prevailed, would have saved many young lives."

Eleanor.

The beautiful child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Broderick, of Penacook, N. H., owes her life to this food. Mrs. Broderick writes:

"Our baby commenced using lactated food when she was about two months old. Before then we had a hard time with her every night. She suffered terribly with griping pains that were the result of indigestion, and we could do nothing to ease her. Her bowels were in a terrible state, and she seemed to be fading away.

"Fortunately I heard of lactated food. I weaned the baby and tried it, and I know that it saved Eleanor's life. If mothers want to keep their children free from pain and build up a sound foundation to form the coming man or woman, they should feed the little ones lactated food. We have used a dollar's worth of this food every month since we commenced, and she loves the sight of a food-can so much that the only way we could get her quiet for a picture was to give her a can to hold."

Lactated food is no secret whatever. It is so good and pure that even the most cautious physicians, like the eminent Drs. Agnew and Guernsey, have always advised its use.

The safe plan for this month and for the summer months to come is to feed infants upon lactated food. It will keep them well and strong.

MAY SHAKE THEM UP.

Death Insurance Companies to be Looked After.

The Sensational Testimony in the Iron Hall Case has Opened Many Eyes.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The recent extraordinary disclosures regarding the financial management of the organization known as the Order of the Iron Hall is likely to lead to a shaking up of quite a number of secret orders organized purely for the payment of death insurance. These orders have been rapidly multiplying of late years, and many of them have obtained an extensive membership covering nearly all of the eastern and western states. Few of them make any annual financial report except to the governing bodies variously known as "senates," "cabinets," "supreme lodges," etc., and by these bodies such reports are usually regarded as privileged documents, not to be made public to the general body of membership, the latter having to be content with statements at remote intervals of the cash on hand and the amount due to beneficiaries on account of death. Since the disclosures concerning the Iron Hall, and the astounding developments made by the state insurance inspector of Massachusetts in his last report concerning the status of numerous secret beneficial societies, a strong sentiment has sprung up in favor of clear and lucid financial reports by the supreme treasurers of the different orders at semi-annual intervals, and it is probable that this feeling will find so general a concurrence as to compel the attainment of the object sought.

WANAMAKER MAD.

He Dumps Twenty-Five Thousand Into the Pot.

Will Refuse a Cabinet Position But Might Go Abroad for a Short Time.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—Although Postmaster-General Wanamaker has made the largest individual contribution so far received by the national republican committee, his check calling for $25,000, instead of $15,000 four years ago, it is denied by those close to him that his munificence has any connection with possible cabinet honors in the event of President Harrison's election.

More than once during the past year the postmaster-general has said, both for publication and in conversation with his intimate friends, that under no circumstances would he again accept a position in the cabinet.

He has found the office of postmaster-general an exceedingly onerous one, especially as he has given it all his time and attention to the neglect of his own important business interests.

He would gladly have resigned long ago had it not been for his unwillingness to embarass the president, and his desire to perfect numerous reforms in the service.

A BUST OF THE QUEEN

Princess Louise Has Finished Her Work.

Victoria will Send the First Map with "America" On it to the World's Fair.

London, Aug. 26.—The bust of the queen which Princess Louise, the eldest daughter of the queen, has been engaged upon for some months, and which her royal highness has, with her majesty's consent, promised to send to Chicago for exhibition at the world's fair, is now complete.

It is a notable example of the princess' skill, and standing in the queen's boudoir at Osborne, it has attracted much attention among the members of the family.

The princess has also been at work on some pictures which are intended for Chicago, and these, it is said, will, after the exhibition, be sold, and the proceeds devoted to various charitable institutions in which she is interested.

Of all the daughters of the queen the Princess Louise is the best artist, although she is closely followed by the Princess Beatrice. The queen will lend to the Chicago exhibition the map of Leonardo de Vinci, on which the name "America" first appears.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Farmer John Smith Ends His Days With A Gun.

Paulding, Aug. 25.—(Special)—This afternoon John Smith, of Jackson township, living just north of Hedges, committed suicide by shooting himself. He was about 75 years old and one of the early settlers of the county.

He was in good circumstances financially and has always been regarded as one of the best citizens of his township.

No cause is known to exist for this unfortunate act of Mr. Smith other than the sickness from which he has been suffering for the past few years.

His wife died two or three years ago, since which time he has been living at his son's.

WAITING FOR THE LETTER.

It Will Probably Arrive Next Week.

Republicans Are at Sea Until the President Sends in His Acceptance.

Washington, Aug. 26.—It is semi-officially stated here that Harrison's letter of acceptance will be given out next week. It is barely possible that this long-looked-for document may be given to the press on Sunday evening for publication Monday morning.

According to reports it will be a pretty long document. The republicans are very anxious that it should be forthcoming as soon as possible, as the managers are all at sea until the Harrison views are set forth in extenso.

His attitude on the force bill is a matter of all others which the politicians are anxious to see. Everybody knows how he stands on the tariff, on the currency question and nearly all other great questions, and everybody knew how he stood on the force bill a year ago and how he stands on it now in his heart, but there is a suspicion that his more confidential advisers have pointed out to him the necessity of dumping the force bill as much as possible in his letter of acceptance if he hoped to make anything like a resspectable showing before the country at the November election.

Harrison was just as much wedded to the force bill as was Lodge or Reed or any man who supported that infamous measure in the Fifty-first congress.

Harrison foreshadowed the force bill in his inaugural address, and recommended it in his first message to congress.

Tom Carter, Chauncey Depew, Steve Elkins, Charley Foster and other politicians who are more or less close to Harrison, have come to the conclusion during the past couple of months that the people of the country are opposed to the force bill, and Harrison has been advised to go back on the republican platform, which has declared in favor of the force bill, in order to mollify the people of the south and the people of New York and Indiana who are radically opposed to the principles of such a measure. It is understood that Michener brought word from Indiana that that state would not follow the force bill, and that he has been specially pointedly informed by those familiar with the affairs of New York that the advocacy of the force bill would inevitably cost him the electoral vote of that state.

In consequence of this general understanding of the unpopularity of the force bill, efforts have been made by shrewd republican politicians to induce Harrison to belittle it as an issue in his letter of acceptance, and to throw out hints that the republican party had abandoned the idea of depriving communities of the right to control their election.

If Harrison does this it will almost certainly mean the open defection of ex Speaker Reed, as the nomination of Harrison means the private defection of Quay, Dudley and Platt.

Harrison has been in a good deal of dilemma regarding this matter. Clarkson is an out-and-out supporter of the force bill, and Carter, as a member of the house of representatives, made a speech in favor of the force bill and earnestly advocated it.

Carter, it is understood, has since become scared, and is anxious that Harrison should unload the force bill as strongly as he can without seeming to ignore the Minneapolis platform. Clarkson, however, is filled with the idea that with the force bill five or six states of the south could be always made reliably republican, and that it is good politics to fight it out on that line.

Clarkson, however, it might be said, is not as vitally interested in the success of Harrison as Mr. Carter. Mr. Carter is booked for the seat now occupied by John W. Noble in the event of Harrison's re-election, while there is nothing in sight for Clarkson except what was offered to Chauncey I. Filley and contemptuously rejected—a genteel exile in China or Japan.

GEN. BIDWELL.

He Accepts the Prohibition Nomination.

Indianapolis, Aug. 25.—The letter of acceptance of Gen. John Bidwell, of California, nominee of the prohibition party for president, has been given out for publication in the prohibition press to-morrow.

The letter is long and discusses the principles of the party as enunciated in the Cincinnati platform.

Gen. Bidwell says the danger of the monopolistic tendencies menacing the government is not so great as that of the destructive results sure to come from the liquor traffic.

It is the constant menace of labor which creates the wealth of the nation and the traffic is now sapping and impoverishing the very foundation of the national fabric.

Passing to the question of woman's suffrage he urges immediate emancipation of women. The nation that first gives women equal rights with man, he says, will earn a crown of imperishable glory.

On the question of finance he says the position of the party that the money should be gold, silver and paper, issued only by the government, is fair and broad. He also advocates the legal regulation of the rates of interest in all the states.

ALWAYS GIVING SATISFACTION.

Brandreth's Pills have always given satisfaction. In fifty years there has been no complaint of them. That is about their life in the United States and millions of persons have used them. There is no doubt that they have established themselves by merit alone. They cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, liver complaint, biliousness, and any disease arising from an impure state of the blood. One or two at night on an empty stomach, for a week or two, will keep you in good form and tone up the system. They are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug store or medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

YOU ARE WAITING FOR THIS.

On Wednesday, August 31, the Detroit, Lansing & Northern railroad will run their annual low rate excursion to Petoskey, via Grand Rapids and the Chicago & West Michigan railway, via the new route through Traverse City and Charlevoix. This excursion has been a feature of this popular line for years past, and is eagerly looked forward to by large numbers of people, who take advantage of the very low rates offered to spend a few days among the famous Michigan resorts.

The pure, invigorating air, cool nights and many attractions of this region make the trip one of pleasure and benefit.

September is a delightful month in northern Michigan.

In addition to other attractions, lovers of the sport will find excellent fishing in the lakes and rivers, in which the whole region from Traverse City to Petoskey abounds.

Stops will be made north of Grand Rapids at Baldwin, Manistee crossing (for Manistee), Thompsonville (for Frankfort), Traverse City, Williamsburg (for Elk Rapids, 8 miles), Alden (formerly Spencer Creek), Bellaire and Charlevoix. Good hotels with reasonable rates will be found at all these points from Traverse City north and at Petoskey and Harbor Springs, across the bay from Petoskey.

Special train will leave Detroit at 7:00 a. m., stopping at all stations on the D., L. & N. R. R., taking dinner at Grand Rapids and supper at Traverse City, and arriving at Petoskey at 9:00 p. m.

Tickets will be good for return until September 9, inclusive. Round trip from Detroit $5.

For further particulars address our agents, or George DeHaven, General Passenger Agent, Grand Rapids, Mich. Wm. A. Gavett, General Agent, 120 Griswold street, Hammond building, Detroit. Telephone 368.

JEWS BY THE THOUSAND.

Paris, Aug. 25.—The Jewish committee here state that within a month one thousand Jews, refugees from Russia, have passed through Paris, most of whom were on their way to the United States.

Those who have recently arrived here have been in a most filthy condition, so much so that it was found necessary to disinfect quarters occupied by them while here.

A French actress has just obtained damages against a biscuit manufacturer who advertised her portrait with his wares and which the lady maintained was a perfect libel. The judge agreed with her and the lady's wounded vanity was consoled by a sum of cash.

A country newspaper correspondent in Maine recently sent this cheerful bit of news to his paper: "Brooks is at last provided with a nice hearse and our citizens can now be conveyed to their graves in decent shape. This is something that has long been needed here."

The triumph of art over nature is illustrated in the fact that an artist recently made a painting of some beech trees in an old pasture that he sold for $280. The owner of the pasture parted company with his property at about the same time for $150, and called it a good sale at that.

Some silk worms lay from 1,000 to 2,000 eggs, the wasp 3,000, the ant from 3,000 to 5,000. The number of eggs laid by the queen bee has long been in dispute. Burmeister says from 5,000 to 6,000, but Spence and Kirby both go him several better, each declaring that the queen of average fertility will lay no less than 40,000 and probably as high as 50,000 in one season.

At Farmington, Me., the other day a cat captured one of a flock of martins which had their nests in a little house provided by the owner of the feline, and was making off with the dainty morsel. Attracted by the piteous cries of the bird its mates came to the rescue, alighted upon pussy's back and pecked and scratched and screamed so furiously that she was soon glad to drop her prey and escape indoors. Then the purple martins held a great rejoicing, noisily chattering over the salvation of their mate.

The rapid growth of the habit of sobriety and temperance is one of the characteristics of the American railway service, the use of intoxicants becoming more and more the exception, although it is said to be the rule in the English service. It was a subject for comment in an English railway publication recently that he 5,000 laborers who were employed in changing the grade of the Great Western railway were not allowed to refresh themselves during working hours with anything stronger than oatmeal water.

Strictly Pure White Lead is the Best Paint.

Care is necessary though, to obtain strictly pure, as the market is flooded with so-called Pure White Leads that in reality contain but very little white lead.

The following analyses of two of these misleading brands show the exact proportion of genuine white lead they contain. The analyses describe the labels and brands on the packages and give the contents as follows:

"Lion Brand White Lead. The side label reads as follows: "$100 in Gold. One hundred dollars in gold will be paid if the contents of this package is not pure. For whiteness, fineness, and covering properties it is unsurpassed by any other lead in the market. "Lion White Lead Works, Toledo, Ohio."

Materials	Proportions	Analyzed by
White Lead	12.78 per cent.	Manns &
Sulphate of Lead	3.35 per cent.	Tatarian,
Oxide of Zinc	25.50 per cent.	Chicago.
Barytes	58.30 per cent.

"Masury's Railroad White Lead." White label, marked "Railroad White Lead, 25; pure; John W. Masury & Son, New York and Chicago, warranted superior."

Materials	Proportions	Analyzed by
Oxide of Zinc	55.70 per cent.	Ledoux & Co.,
Barytes	44.30 per cent.	New York.

We have a book which gives the analyses of eighty different misleading brands. If you are going to paint it will pay you to send for it.

It will only cost a postal card to get it, it may save you many a dollar.

Gossip About the Grain and the Men Who Chase It Up and Down the Scale of Prices.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 124,739 bu. and at five other western points 1,026,837 bu., aggregating 1,151,576 bu. On the corresponding Friday in 1891 the receipts at the same points were 1,445,898 bu., but of that quantity 1,018,354 bushels, leaving only 427,544 bu. as the receipts from the five other points, compared with 1,026,837 bu. to-day.

Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat, 161,867 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 388,000 bu.

English markets are dull and lower for wheat and steady for corn.

One effect of early crop estimates by American newspapers was to depress foreign markets to a point where the real truth does not seem to rally them. Of course not. Foreign dealers are not built that way, and will buy of us at the lowest possible price. We are inclining to the opinion that no crop estimates whatever would help our prices. Time was when it was not necessary to know so much, and much learning makes us mad.

Yesterday about the close of change a quantity of rot was sent over the wires which turned markets up 3-4 to 1c. Part of it—concerning war probabilities—we characterize as absurd. One would have supposed English markets were flying, but this morning quotations are lower. How this world is given to lying.

The wheat markets opened lower all along the lines, and showed weakness. September at Chicago broke off 1-2c in the later fluctuations up and down. New York rather steadily declined.

The trading everywhere seems to be by the local dealers, without the appearance of outside traders.

Our bulletin says ten cases of cholera at Lyons, on board steamers from Hamburg, which were ordered out under quarantine.

Foreign markets present no new feature at the close. In New York August wheat closed at 79 3-4c and September at 80 1-8c, a loss of 7-8c; September corn at 57 7-8c.

In Chicago August wheat closed at 74 3-4c, a loss of 1-2c. September at 75 1-4c, a loss of 3-8c. August corn at 51c and September at 51 1-8c, a loss on each of 1c. September oats at 34 3-8c, a loss of 1-8c.

In Toledo—We have had a rather active market for wheat futures, September and December being the leading deals. May was also traded in for the first time. On the regular board prices opened an additional 3-8c to 1-2. At close cash and August were 1-2c lower. September 1-2c, and December 3-8c. On the call September sold at 77 1-2c; October at 78 1-4c; December at 80 1-4c. On the regular board August sold at 78 1-2c and closed at 78c; September at 77 5-8c to 77 1-4c, and closed at 77 3-8c; October at 78 1-c, and closed at 78c sellers; December at 80 3-8c to 79 7-8c, closing at 80c bid; May sold at 85 1-8c to 85 5-8c, closing at 85 1-2c. Cash wheat was in fair shipping demand for No. 3 at 8c to 9c above No. 2. The latter was not wanted for shipment, but for settlement. No. 2 soft sold at 78c to 78 1-2c, and closed at 78c. No. 3 soft at 69 1-2c, and September at same price. In L. S., 70c was paid. At close 69 1-2c was the market. No. 4 soft at 63 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 67c sample, to 65c; No. 2 at 50c; smutty at 62c; weevily, 55 to 57c. Rye and wheat at 58c; No. 2 white at 73c. Corn—No. 2 about 52c; No. 3 about 50 3-4c. Rye—On the call No. 2 for September sold at 63 1-2c, and on the regular board at the same; No. 2 cash at 63 1-2c; No. 3 at 53c. Oats—No. 3 white at 33c.

Clover seed closed firmer. At opening October sold at $5.67 1-2c and at close $5.75 was bid. November at close, $5.70. Prime for cash at $5.80. No. 2 at $5.60 to $5.70, latter by sample. Rejected at $5.20.

FACT STRANGER THAN FICTION

Review of One of the Strangest Cases on Record.

The literature of fiction contains no such exciting story as that which was brought to a close by the payment of $923,728 by the city of New Orleans to Wm. Whitney, representing the estate of Mrs. Gen. Gaines, deceased.

In the first decade of this century Daniel Clark, a settler in Louisiana, was living in the city of New Orleans with a young French woman of remarkable beauty named Zulime des Granges. Zulime had a husband who was residing in France. By her Daniel Clark had two daughters. One died or disappeared before the story begins; the other, Myra, became an inmate of the family of a Col. Davis, supposed herself to be related to him and removed with him to Philadelphia when her father died in 1813. She was ignorant of her relationship to Clark. He left a large estate in property in the city of New Orleans, which he bequeathed to his mother; from her it escheated to the city of New Orleans.

In 1832 Myra Clark, or Myra Davis as she called herself, married W. W. Whitney, and shortly afterward was made acquainted with her parentage. She was also told that just before his death Clark had made a new will acknowledging her as his daughter and leaving her all his property. Where was that will? It could not be found. It never has been found. But several persons testifying in court that they had seen it or heard it read, the supreme court of Louisiana received it as the last will of Daniel Clark and ordered it probated, though of the document itself no trace could be discovered.

Myra's triumph was cut short by the discovery that by the laws of Louisiana a testator cannot make devises in favor of his illegitimate child. This difficulty was overcome by the testimony of two women who said they were aunts of Myra's, and gave evidence that Daniel Clark had married Zulime des Granges in their presence in Philadelphia in 1803, and the trifling circumstance that at the time of the alleged marriage Zulime had a husband living in France was disposed of by testimony obtained in France to the effect that at the time of his marriage to Zulime Des Granges had another wife living, and consequently the second marriage was null and void.

Still the city of New Orleans refused to surrender the property. It produced evidence to show that to the day of his death Clark had refused to acknowledge that he was married to Zulime, and that she had, in fact, contracted a third marriage before his demise. Myra was not discouraged. In 1837 or 1838 her husband Whitney died, and in 1839 she married Gen. Gaines, of the United States army, a man of large influence and vast energy, who took up her cause warmly. Fifteen or sixteen years were spent in lawsuits and negotiations for settlements with the occupants of the property she claimed. In these she took in considerable sums of money, amounting, it is said, to many millions of dollars. Thus supplied with the sinews of war, she renewed the fight in 1856 by filing a bill of equity in the supreme court of the United States against the city of New Orleans. It took 11 years to try the case; but at last, in 1867, after the war, she got a judgment for all the property claimed, with the rents which had accrued on it and which had been illegally collected by the city. The real estate was then said to be worth $35,000,000.

But the city still resisted on various pretexts and appeals on collateral points. Myra was a second time a widow, Gen. Gaines having died in 1849. But she fought on. She displayed magnanimity toward the people who occupied her lots, refusing to bring ejectment suits against those who were poor; but she was relentless in her determination to bring New Orleans to account and to vindicate the memory of her mother. She was still fighting in court after court when death overtook her in 1885. At that time the city of New Orleans was under sentence of a master in chancery to pay her $1,925,667 with $566,707 as interest. Her heirs, and the syndicate of lawyers who had taken up the case on a contingency fee, agreed to settle for less than a million, and that sum, as above stated, was paid.

The case lasted nearly 60 years, and almost every leading lawyer of the old days was at one time or other retained on one side or the other. Mrs. Gaines was a familiar figure in the higher courts and in social circles in New Orleans, in St. Louis and in Washington. She possessed the gift of making friends; men of all parties liked her. If she had not been as popular as she was she could never have brought her long struggle to a victorious ending. But the time has passed when the millions she contended for can do her any good. The tardy payment by the city of New Orleans will be divided by the lawyers.

CULN'S LAST SHOT.

They Called Him a Coward But He Proved His Bravery.

Everybody knew Culn on board the ship. Perhaps this was because no one had ever seen an uglier darkey or one who was more obliging. I have seen Culn tumble out of his berth at 4 o'clock in the morning to sew on a button for a sailor who was mean enough to pour water in his face at an early hour. By the way, that was the only manner by which Culn's terrifying snoring could be stopped. He was always afraid of not doing enough, and had the poorest opinion of himself. I was talking with him once, and he said: "Ye know, Mahs'r Dale, de parson says de good Lord ain't made nuffin' for nuffin', so I guess Culn's got somefin' to do in de realm of nature, but I'll bress de lamb if I kin find it out."

It was the time of blockade running at Charleston. Our ship, the Wasp, had four guns, and strict orders to use them on any boat trying to break the blockade. We had been cruising several days on the coast near Charleston without any excitement. The morning of August 12, 1863, dawned bright and clear, and as the sun rose over the horizon the black lines of a ship were distinctly marked on the golden disc. Our glass soon told us that it was a fast clipper, flying no colors, trying to run the blockade. By breakfast time the skipper was only a few miles to windward, but we were ready with every man at his post and every gun loaded to the muzzle. We could see the beautifully shaped black hull, its smooth appearance only broken by a murderous looking cannon. If she had gone by us her speed was a safe passport from pursuit.

"Show her what we're here for, boys!" shouted the captain. One of the cannon obeyed his order, the shot purposely striking the water several hundred feet ahead of the sharp bow as a fair warning.

A flash came from one of the ports of the stranger, and a piece of our second mast toppled to the deck as kindling wood. Our cannon answered the insult with but little perceptible harm to the stranger.

Lieutenant Crisp was handling our best gun. He was a splendid marksman, but little liked by his men on account of his severity. Culn had been ordered to a position near Lieutenant Crisp's gun. Nearer and nearer the stranger enemy came, and it was evident that unless we disabled her in some way Charleston that evening would again be cracking jokes at the inefficiency of the "Yankee boats" to keep the blockade.

Culn had crept as much as he could behind a lifeboat, when Lieutenant Crisp caught sight of him. Angered by his lack of courage he cried: "Come here, you coward, and stand by me." Culn tremblingly obeyed.

We were not two hundred yards away from the blockade runner when three flashes and three wreaths of smoke shot from his hull with a single report. A second after twenty of our men lay wounded on our decks. Our enemy's cannon had been loaded with grape shot.

Lieutenant Crisp had at that moment been ready to fire his gun again when a bullet tore away his hand. Every gunner near him was wounded and disabled—all but Culn. But was that the same Culn who had but a moment before stood trembling?

His eyes were fixed on the passing ship and every muscle stiffened by intense, sudden courage. Snatching the cord that had fallen from the hand of Lieutenant Crisp he gave it a pull that broke it in two, not, however, until it had fulfilled its duty and sent the spark of fire into the powder of the cannon.

The graceful ship twisted and turned like a wounded stag. Culn's shot had broken the rudder and left the ship at our mercy. And Culn? He was bending over Lieutenant Crisp tying up his wounds, regardless of the bullets hissing about.

A few minutes later a white flag climbed up the mast of the blockade runner; she had surrendered.

With two pieces of cruel lead in his body Culn lay on a folded sail, while the surgeon told him that it was he, Culn, who by his shot had brought the enemy to terms. The chaplain stood beside the surgeon. The surgeon had sent for him.

"Parson, you's right—de good Lord never made nuffin—for nuffin." A proud smile lit up Culn's homely features as the head fell to one side. With an effort he raised it. "Tell Mahs'r Crisp—when he wakes—dat Clan died no coward."

As we stood with bowed heads while the chaplain read the funeral service that evening, the stars and stripes fluttered at half-mast—for Culn.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

ORIGIN OF SOME WORDS.

"Oh, dear!" is equivalent to "O dio mio," "O my God."

"Thimble" was originally "thumb bell," the thimble formerly having been worn on the thumb.

"Slav" is not the slave of the old etymologist, but, in reality, a person of noble lineage.

"Dandelion" is dent de leon, "the lion's tooth," and vinegar was once vin aigre (sour wine).

"Madame" is "my lady," and "sir" has been extracted from the Latin "senior" through the French.

"Biscuit" keeps alive the Latin phrase, bis coctus (twice cooked), and a "verdict" is simply a vere dictum (true saying).

An "earl" was an "elder" in primitive society, while "pope" is the same as "papa," and "czar" and "kaiser" are both Caesar.

A "villain," before the stigma of disgrace was attached to him, was simply a laborer on the "villa" of a Roman country gentleman.

"Rotten Row," the famous London street, gained its name by being called "La Route du Roi," in English "The King's Passageway."—Jewish Messenger.

BRUTAL.

He crept stealthily to her side, and, in an agitated whisper, asked: "Can you keep a secret?"

With a yearning look in her eyes she replied: "Why, of course. You should know I can. What is it?"

"Oh, nothing at all. I just wanted to know, you know." And, as she turned away the congealing look she gave him put ice in his veins.—Brooklyn Life.

Also all required information.

HE MERELY WONDERED.

"I see by that sign," said the man in the chair to the barber, "that you hone razors for private use."

"Yes, sir. Have you some that want honing?"

"No; but I was wondering why you didn't hone the razors you use on your customers."—Brooklyn Life.

NEUHAUSEL BRO'S

HE COULD NOT GET AWAY.

A weary old man dropped with a sigh into a seat in the street car. At the other end three or four young men were talking and laughing.

"They have just returned from their vacation," said the tired man to his next neighbor.

"They seem to have enjoyed it."

"Yes, they seem to. They work in the same store I do."

"Ah?"

"Yes. They have all been away now—everybody in the store—clerks, bookkeepers and heads of departments, even the cash boys and the wrapping men and the porters. Everybody has had his vacation—but me."

"All but you?"

"Yes."

"Well, I should think your employer would let you off too."

The old man shook his head.

"What's the reason he won't?"

"Well," replied the weary man, with another sigh, "you see, I'm the proprietor myself."—Willia mHenry Siviter in Harper's Bazar.

SHE MUST HAVE A SMOKING JACKET.

A new gown, which will shock the staid and decorous members of society by its use is being introduced in England. It is a smoking gown, not for fair cigarette fiends, but for that portion of the feminine population which dislikes to be separated from men even in the smoking room. So that in the English country houses it is becoming a custom for the women to invade that once sacred precinct for a chat before going to bed.

Of course delicate dinner and evening dresses could not be subject to the odorous influences of tobacco smoke, so a sort of tea gown of brown has been devised in which the members of the house party may float gracefully about careless of smoke.
